Middle East Peace Plan Accepted

Canada's Maj. Burns Plays Leading Role

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Egypt have accepted a three-point United Nations peace plan for the disputed El Aulja demilitarized zone.

The UN Palestine truce supervision organization announced the agreement Tuesday after Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld conferred here and in Cairo with leaders of both sides.

Hammarskjöld said the plan was worked out after talks with the Western Big Three and Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, chief truce supervisor.

A few hours later, Reuters news agency reported this morning: Egyptian positions opened fire on an Israeli patrol near Zikim, in the Gaza coastal strip. The agency, quoting an Israeli spokesman, said the fire was returned, but there were no casualties.

Hammarskjöld proposed the plan originally Nov. 3 after Israeli and Egyptian forces clashed in the Negev desert area along the Israeli-Egyptian border. The fighting then was described as the most serious since the 1948 Palestine war.

Under the plan: 1. Egypt will let the truce group put demarcation lines wherever the UN men think necessary; 2. Egypt will withdraw any "minor encroachments" which might still remain in the zone; 3. Israel will remove all her military forces, obstacles and mines from the zone.

Hammarskjöld, who is making a world tour, told a press conference here Tuesday he believes a general Palestine settlement can be reached.

$100 Essay Prizes For Totem Legends

In the adjoining column and two other pages of today's issue The Times presents the actual design for the world's tallest totem pole now being carved at Thunderbird Park.

This is the design of Mungo Martin, the chief carver, and it was sketched for the Times by David Martin, his son. It tells a legend of the Kwakiutl Indians to which they belong.

Now what does this legend mean? What is the significance of the various figures? Mungo Martin will not disclose this until the totem is carved and erected.

$35 FIRST PRIZE

In the meantime Victoria school children who haven't reached their 15th birthday are invited to enter an essay contest telling what they think the legend is.

There is $100 in prize money for these essays.

The first prize is $35, second $15, third $10 and there will be eight other $5 prizes. In addition each prize winner will receive an honorary share in the totem pole.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II
... latest portrait

2 Million Jam Nigeria Port; Await Queen

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters) — Flags, banners and triumphal arches are transforming this seaport into a carnival city keyed up for the arrival Saturday of Queen Elizabeth.

Workers are out day and night cleaning up the city and stringing colored lights, bunting and portraits of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh. The royal party begins a three-week tour of Britain's largest colony here on Saturday morning.

Flags of all dimensions are fluttering from almost every store, apartment, ramshackle stall and house in this tropical city.

A mass movement of Nigerians into the capital has already started. Worried police officials expect more than 2,000,000 people to cram into the city, which has a normal population of less than 300,000, to welcome the Queen.

Police and administration officials expect that the Queen will receive a welcome of almost hysterical proportions, in contrast to the sullen and angry demonstrations here against the British monarchy at the time of her coronation, two and a half years ago.

Now on the eve of complete independence, Nigeria has swung to a mood of throbbing excitement at the prospect of greeting the sovereign.

SNOW ARRIVES FOR OLYMPICS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—A light snow began falling today on Cortina's craggy, snow-starved slopes, raising hopes for successful winter Olympic Games. The games open Thursday.

It was the first snow in 15 days. Skiers reported the slopes had little snow and were dangerously fast.

New Health Plan Due Thursday

OTTAWA (BUP) — Health Minister Paul Martin was reported ready to hand today's session of the federal-provincial health insurance conference a proposal that might see Ottawa bear as high as 65 to 70 per cent of costs in the "have-not" provinces.

Informants emphasized, however, that he might not get a chance to unveil the federal proposition until Thursday.

Martin assured reporters on Tuesday that Ottawa "does have proposals that we think will bring about an agreement."

He and provincial delegates, including Ontario's treasurer, Dana Porter, and Nova Scotia Premier Henry Hicks, expected the conference to last at least until Thursday night.

Martin said after six hours' closed talks Tuesday that he had "never attended a better conference, or one where the feeling of co-operation was so high."

There was conjecture that the federal government had a number of alternative cost-sharing ideas to submit to the provinces. One report was that the Ottawa contributions would range from 49 per cent to 74 per cent.

SLIDING SCALE

The key attraction in the mooded formula—at least for the less wealthy provinces—would be its sliding scale of payments. For "have-nots" like the four Atlantic provinces, where per capita costs would run below the national average, Ottawa would pick up more than 50 per cent of the tab.

The wealthiest provinces, Ontario and British Columbia, would get a federal contribution of 50 per cent or less. British Columbia, as the province with the highest per capita income, probably would get 45 to 49 per cent from Ottawa under the formula, while Ontario's share would work out at 50 per cent. Newfoundland, as the least wealthy province in terms of per capita income, might receive a federal contribution of 65 per cent to 70 per cent. Nova Scotia would get possibly as much as 65 per cent.

UN Public Prayer Rejected by Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia has rejected a U.S. proposal to have each United Nations General Assembly plenary session opened with public prayer by a cleric. The Russians want to stick to the present system of a minute of silence for prayer or meditation at the beginning and end of each assembly.

Canadian Threat

AT VANCOUVER POLICE PROBE

New Pay-Off Charges Loom

VANCOUVER (BUP) — The Tupper Royal Commission inquiry into the Vancouver police department adjourned at noon until Thursday, amid indications that the long probe will wind up then.

Sensational new evidence of alleged police payoffs is expected tomorrow.

Commission counsel J. G. A. Hutcheson told Commissioner R. H. Tupper that the RCMP was conducting a new investigation into alleged payoffs. He hoped it would be completed by Thursday and that witnesses concerned would be called then.

The commissioner said he expected to complete the public hearings tomorrow and allow counsel to make submissions on Friday. If that was too soon, he said, he could receive the submissions next Tuesday.

MUNRO AGAIN

Tabloid writer Ray Munro is expected to be cross-examined Thursday.

At today's sitting, the commission was told that it was "impossible" for a constable to have seen ex-police chief Walter Mulligan being bawled out by businessman William Couper in the office of the Quadra Social Club.

The evidence was given by Peter Turner, former manager of the Burrard Street branch of the Canadian Legion, who said he had been in Couper's office several times a week.

Turner was referring to evidence by Constable Gordon Strang, who said last week he had seen Mulligan being bawled out by Couper in the Quadra club office.

"IMPOSSIBLE"

Turner said it was "impossible" for Strang to have seen into the office from the lobby of the club. The witness drew a diagram of the club to support his contention.

Earlier, three more police officers said they had no knowledge of graft or corruption in the force.

Inspector Ben Jelley, Detective Don MacDonald and Detective Sergeant David McGregor all testified.

Bulganin Letter to Ike 'Friendly'; Talks Peace

STEPS DOWN

H. R. MacMillan Tuesday stepped down from chairmanship of MacMillan & Bloedel, giant B.C. forest industry. He is succeeded as chairman of board by B. M. Hoffmeister. H. S. Berryman is new president. Mr. MacMillan will retain chairmanship of finance and policy committee. (See Page 27.)

Secrecy Shrouds Contents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today received a "friendly letter" from Soviet Premier Bulganin setting forth what the White House called "certain ideas" respecting world peace.

Soviet ambassador Georgi Zarinin read Bulganin's letter in Russian to Eisenhower and to State Secretary Dulles who received him in the president's office. An interpreter translated it into English as the ambassador read.

At the end of the 15-minute conference, Zarinin left the Bulganin letter for Eisenhower's consideration and possible reply.

White House press secretary James Hagerty then told newspaper men:

"Intermittently since the Geneva conference the president and Premier Bulganin have been exchanging correspondence."

"CERTAIN IDEAS"

"The Soviet ambassador this morning brought in a friendly letter containing certain ideas which the premier has asked the president to study further in the interest of promoting world peace."

Hagerty said, in response to a query, he did not know whether the Bulganin letter would be made public.

Zarinin himself declined to discuss the letter.

The most commonly held theory before the delivery was that Bulganin was making a new approach on disarmament, a subject on which he and Eisenhower exchanged notes last year following the Geneva "summit" conference.

The exchange followed Eisenhower's proposal for mutual aerial inspection of American and Russian military establishments. The Russians termed his plan unacceptable unless fitted into a broad disarmament program of the kind which they advocate and the United States has rejected.

Diplomats, however, did not rule out the possibility of some Soviet bid for joint action in the Middle East or a proposal for high-level talks on Far Eastern problems with Red China sitting in.

SLOW PROGRESS

Eisenhower told his press conference earlier this forenoon that any move toward a disarmament agreement with Russia now would be slow and tortuous even at the best.

Zarinin described his interview with Eisenhower as "very good."

To all questions concerning the contents of the message Zarinin held up his hand and with a smile said "no, no, no."

UP AND AP Dispatches

MOSCOW — Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin was absent from another important diplomatic function here Tuesday night. He made his last public appearance on Jan. 4.

Bulganin's three-week absence from public functions "touched off speculation among foreign diplomats in western capitals that he may be ill. He was said to have appeared considerably tired on his return to Moscow from his tour with Khrushchev of India, Burma and Afghanistan."

Informed sources declined to say exactly what his trouble is but indications are that it might be fatigue, heart strain or jaundice.

WHL's Leader Orders Hockey Crackdown

(SEE SPORTS PAGES)

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C.

CP—Al Leader, president of the Western Hockey League, today ordered clubs and officials to crack down on "the nonsense" that already has resulted in two indefinite suspensions of players.

The latest suspension was ordered Tuesday night when Seattle's defenceman Pete Durham was benched for punching linesman Ross Valliere at Victoria.

Leader said here he would talk to New Westminster's Bobby Dawes tonight before he appears in the lineup against Seattle. Dawes suffered a slight concussion and a 24-stitch face wound in Seattle Sunday night in an ice fracas with Americans.

Lloyds' Faith In Grace Kelly Equals 100-5

LONDON (AP)—London insurance men are willing to offer 100 to 5 odds that actress Grace Kelly produces an heir or heiress to the throne of Monaco after her marriage to Prince Rainier III.

Several Monaco businessmen have approached Lloyds of London for insurance against the risk of Miss Kelly not providing such a successor.

Peter Walker, director of a Lloyds insurance company, said today he has had several inquiries for indemnity policies.

"We said we'd be happy to arrange it—provided we can have a medical report on the prince," he said.

"And Miss Kelly, too?" he was asked.

"Well, no," Walker explained. "It's rather a ticklish business, actually. It's the male strain that counts, you know."

Princess Makes Onlookers Gasp

LONDON (AP) — A gasp went up from onlookers when Princess Margaret stepped from her car at a downtown theatre Tuesday night.

It looked very much as though the Queen's pretty young sister had come out in her stocking feet.

A second look disclosed she hadn't, quite. Her footwear consisted of a sandal sole, held on by a string of pearls.

Margaret also wore a royal blue velvet dress with ermine cape.

The show was an invitation-only preview of the American musical comedy "Plain and Fancy" which opens at the Drury Lane Theatre tonight.

Road Job in North Draws Opposition Fire

Liberal and CCF members of the legislature will press for a house committee investigation of the Stewart-Cassiar Highway project in Northern British Columbia.

Spokesmen for both parties said today they are determined to "get to the bottom" of reports that all is not going well on the project, which is a mining assistance road, under the Department of Mines.

The road so far has cost about $750,000. About 48 miles have been constructed, out of a total length of about 350 miles.

Both opposition parties have discussed the issues in caucus several times since the House opened January 17.

The only outward sign of their interest came Tuesday,

COST-PLUS CONTRACT

Contractor on the job in the 1954 and 1955 construction seasons was Wade and Wells Co. Ltd. formerly of Trail. The road is aimed at opening up the mineral wealth of the northern area.

It is understood the contract is on a "cost plus 10 per cent" basis for materials, and a rental basis for equipment.

Government officials said the job was started without definitive engineering, and that the project has been plagued with problems.

Several engineers have been sent to the location.

Brown's questions asked for the cost of the road, and information on progress. He also asked whether tenders were called, and whether any contracts will be put up for tender in the coming season.

Brown also asked "does the department (of mines) consider construction work to date to be satisfactory?"

Hutchison's Book Praised in Britain

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Telegraph says Bruce Hutchison's new book, "The Struggle for the Border," will enhance his prestige in England.

The paper especially mentions a "brilliant vignette" on Lord Durham and says:

"The author's literary reputation stands high in Canada, where he is editor of the Victoria Daily Times. This book will increase it here."

The "brilliant vignette" tells how Lord Durham landed in Canada in May, 1838, with instructions to suppress any recurrence of the recent revolution.

Actually, Hutchison says, Durham was undertaking to save the empire and his report to the British government recommending first

In the belief that parents of children attending schools in the Greater Victoria area are interested in knowing about personalities of the teachers who educate them, The Times continues a series on "Know Your Teacher." The articles will appear three times a week. The Teachers' Association is co-operating.

S. J. Willis Junior High School teacher Miss Christine MacNab, 159 Cook, began her career teaching at Royal Oak Elementary School in 1923.

She was born in Glasgow, Scotland, but her family moved to Saskatchewan when she was very young, then to Montana and finally Victoria, settling in 1912.

Miss MacNab attended Girls' Central School and Victoria High, Normal School and Victoria College, and has since had summer courses at Normal and UBC.

For the last five years at S. J. Willis she has taught English, mathematics and social studies and taken an active part in school play production in connection with Greater Victoria School Drama Festival.

In addition, she is a sponsor of the Junior Red Cross Council for S. J. Willis.

This year, Miss MacNab is chairman of the Vancouver Island Drama Zone, an outside activity to which she devotes much of her free time.

Another outside interest is the IODE, in which she serves as educational secretary of Vic-

Special Sitting On Forests Urged

Socred Wants New Laws Enacted In Fall; Scores Present Plans

A Social Credit backbencher Tuesday urged the government to hold a special fall sitting of the Legislature to enact forestry legislation.

Cyril Sheldford, a frank-talking up-country MLA, said it was a "good idea" to appoint Chief Justice Gordon Sloan a royal commissioner to look into the industry, "but I am afraid a good many operators in the timber industry could be closed down before a report can be made by the commissioner."

"I think it would be a good idea if we take care of this problem at a session next fall," the Omnica member told the House.

Sheldford, who had not hidden his dislike of some aspects of the forest management licence system, urged the government to "check the rising upset stumpage rate which had gone up over double since 1952."

"I can not understand this when we are told the appraisal system is the same as it was in 1952," said Sheldford.

He also asked for cutting the upset stumpage price when timber sales are heavily marked. "Where the operator is only allowed to take 40 or 50 per cent of the total volume of timber, the upset price should be nearly cut in half, as it doubles the cost of logging," said Sheldford.

MARKING FIRST
He said marking should always take place prior to timber sales, so the successful bidder can plan ahead. "As it is today, he could plan for say ten million feet, and at the sale think he had bought ten million feet—only to find out later, after the marking crew had gone through, that he had less than five million feet."

Sheldford said the government should also "freeze the movement of logs from one area to another, so as to keep the economy of the local areas alive."

He said such a step would encourage utilization in the district where the timber is grown, "and also stop those who have large bodies of timber behind them out-bidding those not in the fortunate position of having forest management licences or private timber."

"This, I consider, is unfair competition."

SALES TOO LARGE
He said his fifth recommendation was to "limit the size of timber sales in any one area so as to give the small man a chance."

"The tendency this year seems to be to very large sales," said Sheldford. He mentioned one, in which an operator asked for a sale of 2,000,000 feet. The

MAIDEN SPEECH

Socred Asks Better Deal Of Ottawa

Potential expansion of British Columbia must not be "stifled" by our failure to obtain a just and fair return from the direct tax field from the federal government, Social Credit MLA Les Peterson told the Legislature Tuesday.

Mr. Peterson making his first speech in the Legislature, as a member for Vancouver-Centre said "While as Canadians, we are, all of us, vitally interested in Canada as a nation, and must to a degree support the less fortunate of our sister provinces, we cannot overlook the immense growth in the economy of our province."

He said that this province "will require a larger percentage of the revenues collected in direct taxes by the federal government than the proposal made by the prime minister."

He said that once "it is clearly decided exactly what our position is, we should each and every one of us, regardless of political party, support the decision taken by our government."

"Because we do not accept the proposal submitted by Ottawa does not mean that we are seeking an unfair political advantage," said the young lawyer.

"I am certain that this government does not intend to obtain the support of the people on the basis of political manoeuvres."

Mr. Peterson told the House that "No member of this government has told me—or in any way indicated—what I should say and not say before this House."

"I have not been told that I must toe any party line," he said.

Peterson referred to the speeches made by Trade and Industry Minister C. D. Howe, and Agriculture Minister J. G. Gardiner, in which they were reported to have told at a Liberal dinner in Ottawa that all party supporters must toe the party line "to ensure the future success of the Liberal administration."

"How, no one seems to know," said Sheldford. "Every one of us should know this."

The Omnica member also criticized the operation of the 30 per cent clause, under which independent loggers are allowed to cut 30 per cent of the allowable cut in a management licence.

"It is abused in many cases," said Sheldford. "In some cases, it would appear the independent loggers are being used as scavenger loggers, and are only allowed to log on the high ground and poor timber."

He also called for "better bookkeeping" on the forest department. He said revenue from forest management licences and timber sales was "all lumped in."

"Great changes have taken place in the trust company business..."

Following are highlights from the addresses given at the 58th annual meeting of National Trust Company by J. G. Hungerford, President, and Harry H. Wilson, Vice-President and General Manager.

Assets Exceed $500,000,000

1955 proved to be the most prosperous year in Canada's history. These generally prosperous conditions are reflected in the annual report of National Trust Company's operations. For the first time, total assets under administration exceed half a billion dollars.

This past year the Company was called on to administer more estates, more trusts and more agencies than in any other year in its history, and the number of wills made by the living which appoint the Company executor reached a new high.

This is evidence of an ever widening appreciation of the services that the Trust Company renders to individuals and corporations.

A new record was also established on the Savings Deposits side of our business, where there was an increase of almost 30% in savings deposits over 1954.

Specialized Services

Great changes have taken place in the Trust Company business over the past fifteen years, but because these changes have been gradual I believe the public does not appreciate their extent.

The growing complexity of our tax laws—both succession duty and income tax—has meant that to provide proper service for our clients we have had to devote more and more attention to these specialized fields.

Pension and profit-sharing plans have become increasingly important in the work of the Personal Trust Department.

Wider Investment Powers

It is most important to remember that a trustee will be restricted to the narrow field of trustee investments unless the will or trust document specifically states otherwise. Now, we find discretionary investment powers in almost 60 per cent of the estates and trusts which came to us in the past ten years as against 24 per cent in the years 1926 to 1935.

Relief from Succession Duties

The inflation of recent years has had a marked effect on the living standards of those who depend on the income from small and moderate sized estates. Some measure of relief can be afforded in the future if the succession duty exemptions allowed on such estates are increased substantially.

At the present time succession duties take far too big a slice out of small estates, and it would not seem unreasonable to suggest an exemption of $75,000 in place of the present exemption of $50,000 on all estates which are left to widows and children or others in what is generally referred to as the "preferred class" of beneficiaries.

Need for Review of Wills

Time brings about changes not only in business affairs and family circumstances but in tax laws and governmental regulations as well. This gives emphasis to the need for a frequent review of one's will to ensure that it will do what it is intended to do at the least possible cost to the beneficiaries.

It is the Trust Company's job to be well informed on all matters relating to estate planning. Often suggestions can be made which will result in succession duty and income tax savings. It has been said that it takes a lifetime to build an estate, but some begrudge the hour or so that it takes to arrange for its disposition by will.

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... only parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. Tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved, ingredient goes right to work—killing Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for Jayne's P.W. Tablets.

The small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

IN PARLIAMENT

Govt. Weathers With Ease Two Non-Confidence Motions

From Times News Service

Parliament's most unpredictable independent, Ross Thatcher, has thrown his vote in with the Liberal majority.

The government Tuesday night weathered with ease a pair of non-confidence motions moved by the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties. Both votes were taken by the Liberals with identical 153 to 82 counts as the 10-day throne speech debate concluded its second-last day.

And twice Mr. Thatcher, who bolted the CCF party last spring after being in their ranks in the Commons since 1945, provided the 153rd government-favoring vote. Mr. Thatcher was first elected in the old Moose Jaw riding and has been member for Moose Jaw-Lake Centre since the 1952 redistribution.

Backed CCF Motion

Last week, however, he voted with the opposition on a CCF non-confidence motion criticizing the government for not providing cash advances to Prairie farmers on farm-stored grain. That motion was defeated 150 to 80.

Mr. Thatcher said later in an interview that he may not vote again for the Liberals for a long time.

He said he voted with the CCF last week because it had advanced a specific proposal: cash advances on farm-stored grain. He was in favor of this.

But the Conservative and Social Credit non-confidence motions, he said, blamed the government generally for the Prairie wheat surplus problem.

He said it is hard to see what the government can do beyond what it has done. World conditions were to blame for the surplus.

Mr. Thatcher said it wasn't an easy decision to make to support the government after years in opposition.

"There's no particular significance in it, though," he added.

Lined up against the Liberal majority were Progressive Conservative, CCF and Social Credit members and two other independents, Paul Gagnon, Chicoutimi, and Paul Poulin, Beauce.

Charged 'Neglect'

First to fall was a Social Credit motion criticizing the government's "failure" to implement policies that would keep farm cash income at a fair level. It also charged "utter neglect" by the government of responsibility to help provinces maintain a satisfactory broad tax basis through development of natural resources.

Next was a generally worded Conservative motion charging the government with "indifference, inertia and lack of leadership in the face of serious national problems."

Members used the waning hours of the throne speech debate Tuesday to cover a variety of topics.

Members heard J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC—Quebec West) sharpen his tongue on Jean-Paul St. Laurent whom he described as a spoiled child of the prime minister who won a federal election with "childish sayings" about his influence with his father.

Jean-Paul St. Laurent was in his seat but made no reply.

Economic Research

Ambrose Holowach (SC, Edmonton East) proposed establishment of a research council to inquire into Canadian production and consumption of goods, purchasing power and prices. Results of such an inquiry would lead to formulation of a sound fiscal policy.

Current problems in Canada did not concern production, but distribution and finance. Many persons did not share in Canadian prosperity. The government's offer to western farmers to make loans on farm-stored wheat was only an invitation to get into debt.

It was inexcusable that the government continued to "hog everything." Private enterprise should be permitted to enter the fields of air travel and television. Canadians would receive expanded services without having to foot the bill themselves.

May Remove Tax

Finance Minister Harts indicated Tuesday he will consider removal of a tax on oxygen.

He told Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg-North Centre) that he is aware of the decision of the income tax appeal board which ruled that a Montreal man has to pay taxes on $740 worth of oxygen provided for his wife, ill with pulmonary tuberculosis. The man sought to deduct the cost of the oxygen as a medical expense.

MRS. CORNING... iron bars weren't prison for her bookmaker husband.

TOOK BETS IN PUBS

Bookie Only in Jail At Night, Probe Told

VANCOUVER (CP)—A convicted bookmaker spent only the nights in the cells during a 15-day jail term in 1942, the R. H. Tupper police inquiry was told Tuesday.

Mrs. Rose Corning, widow of William ("Mugs") Corning, said she saw him take bets "on the street and in beer parlors" when he should have been "washing cars in the police garage."

He was in custody only at night, she said.

A young constable testified earlier at Tuesday's 38th session of the royal commission that he didn't believe Mrs. Corning when "two or three years ago she said her husband had told her he paid off $5,000 a month to the man whose name is on that paper." Constable Klett pointed to a slip of paper held by lawyer Angelo Branca. The man was not further identified.

WALKED OUT

"I told her she was crazy and walked out."

Joe Celona, questioned by J. G. A. Hutcheson, commission counsel, admitted a criminal record which included a sentence of 10 years for living off the avails of prostitution, 10 years for procuring and a sentence as keeper of a disorderly house, all in 1935. He said the terms were reduced to a total of 11 years.

"Did you ever pay any money to the police force?" asked Mr. Hutcheson.

"No, sir, not a dime."

"Cuthbert gave evidence that you offered to pay $300 a month protection," Mr. Hutcheson said.

"That is not true."

(Detective-Sergeant Len Cuthbert, former gambling squad head, was severely wounded when he shot himself last summer in an admitted suicide attempt.)

Inspector Peter Lamont outlined his long career in police work and denied taking "long, white envelopes" from Mrs. Corning, who said she delivered them to him and another officer for her husband.

One of the envelopes contained $300, she said.

Evidence given to the Tupper probe passed the 1,000,000-word mark Tuesday, stenographers reported.

Commissioner Tupper announced he hoped the hearing which began July 5 will be concluded this week.

During the 38 sessions, close to 100 witnesses have testified; more than 100 exhibits have been entered. Since the hearing opened, there have been 129 days of adjournment.

Doomed Killer Claims Freed Pal Led Gang

VANCOUVER (CP)—Chow Bew, 43-year-old Chinese under a death sentence for murder, testified Tuesday he had been warned not to "sneak or spill" if arrested following a planned robbery.

Chow, reprieved from being hanged until April 6, said he was threatened by another Chinese, Eng Git Lee, whom he described as the planner of the robbery that ended in the slaying of Ah Wing, 65-year-old grocer in his store Jan. 6, 1955.

Chow was testifying at the retrial of Donald Cathro, 26-year-old construction worker who was convicted of murder last March in connection with the same slaying. "If the worst comes to the worst... if we get arrested don't squeal or spill... or I'll treat you with the proper methods," Chow quoted Eng Git as saying before the robbery.

Eng Git was acquitted by the same court which found Chow and Cathro guilty of murder.

Cathro won a new trial when the Supreme Court of Canada found Mr. Justice A. M. Manson misdirected the jury.

He is being defended by John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert.

Ike's Decision To Follow Check-Up

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower announced today that he probably will undergo his next important medical examinations between Feb. 10 and Feb. 15. He promised that his decision on whether to seek re-election would come soon after that.

CALGARY (CP)—Mayor D. W. Mackay Tuesday confirmed a report that he is considering entering federal politics under the Liberal banner in either the Calgary South, Calgary North or Bow River constituencies.

Executed by Guillotine

PARIS (CP)—Louis Mathieu, 24, was executed here Tuesday for murdering a taxi driver. He was the fourth Frenchman to die on the guillotine in three years. Most death sentences in France are commuted to life imprisonment, but the public prosecutor had asked that Mathieu should be executed in view of a wave of attacks on taxi drivers.

Fluoridated Water Approved After Aldermen Sip Sample

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP)—The Hamilton city council approved fluoridation of the city's water supply Tuesday night by a 12-8 vote after a two-hour debate.

A motion to put the issue up to voters in a referendum failed when the council split 10-10 on it.

A jug of water from Brantford, Ont., where fluoridation has been in effect for 10 years, was taken into the council chamber by Alderman John Mauro for the councillors to sample.

Let's Have the Facts

MOST BRITISH COLUMBIANS, regardless of party affiliation, will agree with Mr. Gargrave, of the C.C.F., when he calls for a royal commission in the Sommers case.

Of course Mr. Sommers, the minister of lands, has the right to launch a civil suit when he considers himself libeled and slandered by Mr. David Sturdy. But, as Mr. Gargrave says, these proceedings will not satisfy the public, however they turn out.

The issue here is not confined to a dispute between Mr. Sommers and Mr. Sturdy. It involves the integrity of the Government and the management of British Columbia's primary asset, the forests. A libel and slander suit will not necessarily cover all this ground and it may take a long time. The people of British Columbia undoubtedly desire an unrestricted investigation and an early report which will clear up all the questions raised by Mr. Sturdy.

Mr. Gargrave suggests that the Government appoint a royal commission immediately. After it has reported, Mr. Sommers can pursue his private suit as he sees fit in the light of the report. This is good advice and Mr. Bennett would be wise to follow it. For the whole Government, and the whole forest management license system will remain under a cloud until the complete truth is known.

Meanwhile the Legislature, quite properly, is not discussing the matters raised by Mr. Sturdy. Its discussions relate only to the behaviour of Mr. Bonner, the attorney-general, in handling this matter.

Mr. Bonner's action, or lack of action, is extraordinary but still more extraordinary is his silence in the Legislature, up to this writing.

He keeps promising to make a statement. He has had some six weeks to make a statement. But he has not made a statement.

It is no excuse to say that the agenda of the Legislature is crowded, that Mr. Bonner has had no chance to speak in the current debate. He can speak at any time, inside or outside the Legislature. And when his conduct as the first law officer of the Crown is challenged by the Opposition he is bound to speak. His silence under these circumstances does him no credit.

In another fashion Mr. Speaker Irwin's latest advice to the Legislature is equally surprising. He says that the Legislature should not discuss the administration of forest management licenses at all until Chief Justice Sloan has completed his present inquiry and submitted his report.

When any civil or criminal case is before a court the law holds, quite rightly, that these proceedings must not be the subject of public comment. The purpose of this rule is to prevent comment prejudicing the minds of judges or juries.

But Chief Justice Sloan is not trying a case. He is studying a public policy, and public policy is always open to discussion. The Legislature, indeed, has no purpose but the discussion of public policy.

There is no reason why members of the Legislature cannot express their views on the policy of forest management and no possibility that their words will influence the Chief Justice. His report will express his own views but it is only the Legislature that can make public policy in the form of statutes.

It will be many months before the Chief Justice will write his report and still longer before the Government will act on it. In the interval any member of the Legislature who has views on forest policy must be able to state them. Is all debate on British Columbia's most important business to be paralyzed because a royal commission is at work?

If such a doctrine were carried into national affairs Parliament could hardly discuss any economic problem in Canada because the Gordon Commission has yet to report.

Mr. Bennett is not responsible, of course, for the views of Mr. Speaker Irwin, but it is to be hoped the Government will make clear that it has no objection to public debate on its policies and administration. Surely there is nothing to hide.

Recreation and the Woods

THE B.C. GAME COMMISSION has recently distributed the summary of an address by Mr. Kramer-Adams, of the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company, dealing with the public's use of Weyerhaeuser forests.

In view of the opinions expressed by Mr. H. R. MacMillan on his company's attitude toward hunters, fishermen and recreationists, the Adams' statement takes on substantial interest.

Mr. MacMillan, in his brief to the Sloan commission, described the method by which members of fish and game associations were allowed, on permit, to enter MacMillan holdings on weekends and holidays—that is, when no logging operations were proceeding. The conduct of all of these "guests" had been excellent, he indicated.

At the same time, Mr. MacMillan pointed out that the 6,000 to 7,500 travellers into his company's forest management licences "constitute an unreasonable fire risk imposed on the licensee." Yet, he added, "the Government refuses to assist in controlling travellers through Forest Management Licences except in short periods of general closure."

The fact is that members of the public are going to go into the forests to hunt, to fish and to pursue other wilderness recreation—and many people are not going to concern themselves too much with the ownership or control of the particular part of the forest they enter.

Mr. Adams suggests that within years the number of people enjoying the outdoors will double on this continent. He asks where will they go.

National parks and forests—and in B.C. provincial parks—will absorb many. But in the U.S. last year these facilities were crowded in a number of areas. More and more pressure, he says, will be placed on the land owner to open his lands.

Weyerhaeuser has done that on certain lands not currently operating areas. The American concern has gone a step further. It has created on its lands, parks, picnic sites and other amenities for the public. Generally, the results have been encouraging.

The scheme has paid dividends in good public and community relations. In the case of hunters, it has helped to keep game population down to a point where too much damage is not being done to tree farms.

By becoming friends of the recreationists, companies which have opened their lands have reduced vandalism, increased the visitors' sense of responsibility in the woods and have built up goodwill.

Weyerhaeuser's spokesman says forest owners have not by any means reached the limits of "recreation production" in their forests. As a matter of good business, he advocates plans by big companies to promote the "sustained yield in good landowner-sportsman relationships."

The attitude is one to interest British Columbians who are increasingly concerned over forest tenures which are reducing their ability to move freely through the woods.

Outmoded Arguments

IN A RECENT ISSUE OF THE Ottawa Citizen, a Mr. George O. Kerr, writing on behalf of the Ottawa Pure Water Association, quoted a petition, dated April 29, 1933, which was signed by 119 dentists who are members of the American Dental Association, the Massachusetts Dental Society and the Worcester Dental Society.

These 119 dentists protested strongly against a proposal to add fluorides to the drinking water of the Worcester district, and their petition was given wide publicity.

It is to be noted that this petition was dated early in 1933, and is still being used by opponents of fluoridation, such as Ottawa's Mr. Kerr.

But what are the real facts? The 1933 petition is now hopelessly outdated. In fact it has been out of date since May, 1934. For as early as that date the American Dental Association was able to report that a poll of the Worcester (Mass.) Dental Society showed 171 out of 227 members to be in favor of fluoridation. Nine members were undecided, 15 signified opposition, 10 were absent from the state and 22 did not reply to the poll.

The ADA bulletin points out that the poll was especially taken to determine the authenticity of earlier statements regarding the 119 dentists said to oppose fluoridation. It was noted that the Worcester Society had voted three times in favor of fluoridation, and further that the body was "on record as recommending to the Board of Health and the City Commissioner of Public Health that the water supply of the City of Worcester be properly fluoridated (one part per million) at the earliest possible date."

Thus is punctured another false statistic of the anti-fluoridation interests, who pursue their opposition to this health measure with so fanatical a disregard of facts that the whole motive and purpose of their efforts are placed in serious doubt.

DOGWOOD

I don't like to write mean things about the dogwood tree, but there's no getting over the fact that it is usually too tree-crowded to expand gracefully and freely, its flowers coarse in texture and funeral in color, growing in many countries, its name harsh, unmusical and inappropriate.

The Times announces that the dogwood will be adopted at the present session of the Legislature as British Columbia's official floral emblem. Last summer, owing to dogwood tea-parties and other press items it was evident something was cooking politically about the dogwood.

In the choice of hymns we should be governed by our capacity to re-enact in our own minds the praise we wish to convey and make known to our fellow parishioners.

We should find ourselves those elements which go to make up our intense desire to give utterance to our innermost feelings and we should not be deterred from this by the unfamiliarity of the hymns placed before us.

No man can be greater than his song. In the choice of hymns we should spring from his lips, to the organ's ethereal strains upon the air.

Let us all sing in the spirit of our intention to our Creator and not deny our expression for the want of a suitable medium.

No greater compliment can we pay the Church than to acknowledge that its hymns are within our capacity to sing and within our comprehension of music in general.

The hymns that are, are those we remember and cherish in the heart.

'BLATANT ERROR'
With reference to a letter from a person re "Keeping Canada British," I commend her or him for the remarks but I'm sorry the person referred to the Queen as "Her Royal Highness." Surely in Canadian schools the Queen is referred to as "Her Majesty" and I'm sure most people are aware of that.

This reminds me of a notice I saw just before Christmas in a well-known local jeweller's window, re some china. The notice read "As purchased by 'Her Royal Highness' Queen Elizabeth."

Such ignorance seems to me inexcusable, although after the display of it at the Legislative Buildings, at the visit of "Her Royal Highness" the Princess Royal, one is not altogether too surprised.

When Victorians are showing off this "little bit of England" to their American tourist friends, I hope they do not make the blatant error while speaking of their Queen, because most Americans know the correct address and title. Wake up, Victoria.

REFUND TAX
One of Mayor Scurrah's election promises was to abolish the road and poll tax.

I know he did not say when, but the people of Victoria who pay it many of them naturally expected it to be done this year.

This can be done quite easily and should be, because the fact remains that many do not and never have paid it. Another fact is that long-standing residents and native-born who do not own property in this city, but do in other parts of B.C., have paid it here for years.

It would seem to me that if one pays, then all who should pay.

Due to this fact, those who have paid, and if election promises mean anything at all, those who have been honest or silly enough to pay ahead as many do, because they are good honest citizens, should have it immediately refunded to them. I deem it illegal to collect from one and not another.

I think Mr. Scurrah will see my point and suggestion as fair, and into the bargain as Godly.

FIVE BY FIVE
Following is an open letter to the Attorney-General, which I hope you will print in the general interest:

Attorney-General R. Bonner:

Sir:
I am writing with regard to a small matter in the Motor Vehicles Branch.

The five-year driver's license appears to be acceptable to the public, but is continually overlooked when the renewal date finally rolls around.

Why not adjust the renewal date to fall on the driver's birthday every multiple of five—as, 20, 25, 30, 35, 40, etc., years. I'm sure we would all remember to renew our license at the proper time.

(And if Mrs. Jones doesn't advertise the fact that she is going to get her driver's license renewed this week, no one will conjecture—30—35—40—years?)

MRS. MARGARET WHITTAKER.

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

I AM VERY fond of reading household hints, handy tips, and clever little tricks. They make me feel my mind and my house are very shipshape. "My mind to me a kingdom is," and sometimes this kingdom is a desert island, where I perform miracles of ingenuity with the most unlikely materials. People often talk (and also boast) about what books they would bring to a desert island. I think, on the whole, it would be wise to bring an enormous volume of 10,000 household hints. Somewhere in this book you could discover how to remove coconut stains by means of seawater, and how to remove seawater stains by means of coconut, and how to make ink out of pickles, and that sort of thing.

Well, in a certain British Columbia weekly newspaper there is the most wonderful column called Household Scrapbook. This column is what people call "rewarding," but a reward implies merit, and I often feel I have done little or nothing to deserve Household Scrapbook. It is too good for me. For example, just listen to this:

"After a mouse has been caught in a trap, do not use the trap again until it has been thoroughly scalded, dried and aired, to take away all scent. Do this, or use a new trap. These traps can be purchased so cheaply that many women prefer to throw them away with the mice in them."

MOUSEHOLD Hints. We are now living in the era of the Disposable Mousetrap. If a man can make a disposable mousetrap, the world will beat a temporary pathway to his interchangeable door.

I thought at first that the column was speaking about the scent frightening other mice. But now I think it is speaking about the convenience of the woman, not of the mouse. In any event, what matters is not the motive for the cleaning, but the picture of women throwing away mousetraps complete with mice.

Where do they throw them, to avoid a different scent? And what if the woman who throws away a once-used trap is one of those thrifty types who will feel guilty ever after? Some women feel better if they throw everything out, but others feel better if they throw NOTHING out. Just like men, in fact. I have known men whose need to throw things out was almost pathological, but I've known men whose thrift was almost pathological too.

I HAVE known men who devoted their whole lives to worrying over ways to use broken or worn-out things over again. The idea of throwing out a worn blotter or a dirty pipe-cleaner or a half-used sheet of memo-paper was mere torture to them. If such a man found his wife throwing out new mousetraps (with or without mice in them), I shudder to think what might happen. And, as I say, I have known women like that too. I have known women who would rather post a ruinous letter than waste the paper and stamp. And who would hike miles with an unstamped letter rather than buy a stamp at all. During their hikes, I expect they looked into other people's garbage cans to see what could be salvaged.

I ONCE knew a sailor whose ship called regularly at Manila and here he bought pure silk socks at five cents a pair. (This was some years ago. I dare say the price has gone up now, if there are any silkworms left there.) Since the cheapest laundry he could find would charge him eight cents a pair for washing these socks, and since it would be bad for discipline to have a steward find him washing clothes in his cabin, it was obvious that the most economical thing for him to do was to throw his dirty socks over the side and buy fresh ones. I don't suppose the reasons matter. What does matter is that women are far more shocked by the story than men are. It makes some of them feel restless and almost cross.

NICE TO HAVE A HOBBY
I HAVE here a bulletin from my old schoolmaster, the Reverend A. C. Mackie of Vernon. One of his hobbies is killing rattlesnakes. ... indeed, I think I told you a story about that once ... about the time he got bitten, and sat in a doctor's waiting room, and when the nurse turned up she asked if he had an appointment. Well, this bulletin says the Reverend A. C. Mackie was on a little rattlesnake-hunting trip in the South Okanagan and Similkameen country last year, and in four days he killed 176 rattlers. Eighty-nine of these were killed in three hours. He says this is a record. I can well believe it. I don't suppose the competition is very keen, so it is all the more wonderful to set up a record like that completely unpaired, so to speak.

I once heard of a bullterrier who killed a thousand rats in an hour, but that was rather different. The rats were penned in for one thing. For another thing, rats are not rattlesnakes. Again, a bullterrier is not the same thing as a sporting parson who defies rattlesnakes.

Empty Stage

The Montreal Gazette

At the City Centre Theatre in New York, Orson Welles played Lear from a chrome wheelchair, his crimson robes failing to conceal the shining wheels. Welles had one broken ankle in a cast, the other taped from a sprain—both injuries suffered within the previous two days.

The performance, which the audience found thrilling, was a personal triumph for Welles. It was also considered, at first thought, a remarkable modern innovation.

Certainly the wheelchair was new and quite modern. But the fact that voice is the heart of the living theatre goes right back to the first dramatists of the Western world, the Greeks. Movies, with the sweeping action which their cameras can cover, have tended to make audiences forget the ancient principle.

The theatre has never forgotten it. Three resounding stage successes in the past few years have recalled it. Charles Laughton has done readings from the classics on an empty stage. Emyln Williams has recreated the successful tours of Charles Dickens, playing several parts, as Dickens did, on an empty stage. "Don Juan in Hell" has been presented in reading form by four talented actors in evening clothes.

Why are such performances so successful? Because they do not supply every image in their story, as movies do. They force an audience to enjoy an unusual experience in this mechanical entertainment age; they force the audience to exercise its own imagination.

The experience is necessary for the full enjoyment of living. The loss of that experience, that ability, is the cruellest loss that is threatened by too much television in the home.

Where Books Pile Up and Houses Come Down

Written for The Victoria Daily Times by Gerard Fay, London Editor of The Manchester Guardian

IT'S an open secret of the book reviewers' trade that certain shops around Fleet Street specialize in buying review copies at 50 per cent of the market price, no questions asked and the rough taken with the smooth.

Many a family, I suspect, has had jam for its bread and butter, many a broker's man has been warded off, many a long liquid party has been founded on this custom.

But I met a book reviewer in a good way of business the other day who said that he had found a new use for the larger volumes.

BOOK BURNER
He is a precise, finicking sort of man who has been known to use a slide rule in public, and he said that, taking into account the latest rise in solid fuel, he has found it more economical to burn books than sell them; of course he uses a slow combustion stove and points out that to the stove all books are of equal calorific value, the hottest novel with the coldest collection of sermons.

I mention this, because it sometimes looks as though on a national scale there is nothing to do with our surplus books but burn them.

A whole neighborhood of Bloomsbury is threatened with extinction because the British Museum needs to extend its book warehouses. Library is the more useful word, but of course that means a place where people read, where books are stored against the time when somebody will want to refer to them.

But the threat to Bloomsbury, a district once devoted to graceful living and high thinking, is that it will be weighed down and buried under a massive load of books which nobody in any foreseeable circumstances will ever read.

Think of the statistics (and of course regard them with the suspicion which is their due): In 1935 the British book trade put out the staggering total of 19,962 new volumes, including reprints of existing books.

By law the British Museum is entitled to a copy of each; in practice it accepts a high proportion and adds them to its miles and miles of shelves which have long ago burst out of the original building.

But it is not only the British Museum which threatens to extinguish one of London's most admirable residential districts. London University, whose colleges house three times as many undergraduates as Oxford or Cambridge, must build or languish.

Hospitals, medical institutes, nurses' homes, students' hostels, the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art, the publishers' offices—all are spreading so fast that "a room in Bloomsbury" of the sort that Sandy Wilson's young lovers in "The Boy Friend" sought, is just about as much residential accommodation as anyone can hope to find nowadays. Unless, of course, he is a student.

SAD SQUARES
There's something very sad about these quiet streets and squares, which are still something of a silent enclave where the roar and rumble of the Euston Road or Tottenham Court Road, Southampton Row or New Oxford Street, penetrate only as a distant whisper; where Garnets and Strachey's, met. Woolfs, and Keyneses and Lawrences; where a literary style and an economic theory could flower side by side, and where the museum, the university, the Institute of Tropical Medicine, the Great Ormond Street Hospital were friendly neighbors instead of ravening monsters gobbling up family houses.

The tragedy is heightened by the fact that they gobble with the full approval of the Ministry of Housing and Local Government which has replaced the equally culpable Ministry of Town and Country Planning.

It begins to look as though the bombing by Hitler's men was a minor wound to London compared with what can be done by the conspiracy of town planners with public bodies.

Drive the Londoner to Dagenham or Welwyn, or Harrow or Three Bridges—anywhere as long as he will keep out of the way and allow his Bloomsbury, his Soho, his Mayfair, his Belgravia to be blotted out, to be left at night to the cat and the caretaker.

Tell him it is better for his health to travel 40 miles a day; hit him over the head with a compulsory purchase order if he shows signs of rebellion.

If the planners get their way what ought to be the heartland of London will become a touristic, administrative, commercial, academic, surgical centre, nobody's fireside and everybody's workshop or office. It seems the surest way of destroying the soul of a great city. Fortunately there is another side to it which I shall tell another day.

Other Side of the Bar

LONDON — It is a popular dream with many people in this country to own a pub. It is like the daydreams most newspapermen indulge in — when they have moods of thinking that chasing the news is a bit of a rat race, they turn to thoughts of how pleasant it would be to own a nice quiet country newspaper.

It is pretty obvious why people have this owning a pub daydream. They know the English pub as an agreeable place to spend some time among the conversation of one's friends and away from office and domestic problems; how nice it would be to make one's life among those pleasant surroundings, drawing the occasional pint of beer, having a game of darts with customers when business is slack and always having the enjoyment of new and interesting people coming into your pub.

To investigate this dream, I asked a publican I know to let me serve behind the bar so that I could get an idea at first hand what it would be like to own a pub.

It is interesting the difference it makes just stepping that couple of feet from one side of the bar to the other. Though one may have observed the Englishman in his pub for many years from the buying side of the bar, it is an entirely different — and revealing — aspect one gets from the other side.

There are the various techniques of the Drink Scroungers. One of them will come in and order a half-pint of the cheapest beer; then when someone comes in and invites him to have a drink he at once switches to double Scotch. The reverse twist to this is for the man who is always in the habit of buying himself expensive drinks lying in wait for a beer-drinker.

When the beer-drinker comes into the pub he hastens to buy him a drink — so that when the next round comes the beer-drinker is stuck with buying the other fellow one of his expensive ones. Then there is the scrounger who will let everybody else buy a round and then when it comes his turn he suddenly remembers an urgent appointment he has to keep.

The Cigaret Trick is another one I noticed. When the fellow who is stingy with his cigarettes wants to have one but hates the thought of handing his packet around he will leave the bar on some pretext and then when he rejoins his friends — lo and behold, he's smoking.

From behind the bar you hear all sorts of intimate bits of conversation that you never overhear when you are at the bar yourself. It is strange but true that people at a bar regard the barman as something quite impersonal. If discussing something very intimate they will be careful that no other customers can hear — but they never think of preventing the barman from hearing.

Having sampled it, would I now like to run a pub? No. It's not the easy job it looks — the nine hours a day you're on your feet are only part of your work. Before and after you are open there are hours of washing glasses, cellar work, bringing up cases of beer, etc. No holidays, not even on Sunday and at Christmas.

And the main reason I wouldn't care for it — I don't like the tricks of the trade that go on behind the bar which come under the heading of "this is how you make a pub pay."

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

'Hereditary' Syphilis

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

One of the most devastating experiences a woman can have is to be told by her physician that her husband is dying in the last stages of nervous or arterial syphilis. In such cases the doctor will immediately have the woman's blood tested for syphilis, preferably with several different techniques. If all these tests come out "negative" indicating that the woman never got syphilis from her husband; if she never had any symptoms of syphilis; if she never had a series of miscarriages, or if she has healthy children, she should take heart and stop worrying. She should try to put the fear of infection right out of her mind and not let it in again.

Dr. Alvarez

She should know that syphilis is not inherited as epilepsy can be, and hence it cannot suddenly show up in a healthy middle-aged son of hers; and it is never going to show up in his children. Syphilis is an infection, like measles or mumps. An infection due to a tiny spiral germ, called a spirochete. If a young man with active syphilis in its early stages marries, he is very likely to infect his wife. Often she has no symptoms, and hence fails to appreciate her danger and the danger to any children she may try to bear. If she gets syphilis, her children are likely to get syphilis from her, and perhaps most of them will die of the disease in her womb. The typical story we doctors used to hear was that of the woman who had had several miscarriages and then a still-born child. When a child of hers, with syphilis, succeeded in being born alive, he (or she) was likely to show certain signs such as clouded eyes, with poor vision.

LESS OF IT NOWADAYS

Fortunately, today, with blood tests that reveal syphilis, and the excellent treatments with penicillin, we physicians are not seeing much of this sort of thing. It is years since, in my own practice, I have seen young people with syphilis contracted from their parents.

The important thing for anxious parents of a syphilitic man to know is that if the husband knew of his infection, contracted probably in his boyhood; then if he had much treatment; then waited until he was 36 or so, and then married, even if he had some syphilis left smouldering deep inside him, he may well have been in such condition that his wife and the children she bore did not get the disease.

When this happens, as it commonly does, the woman must not keep worrying herself sick; she must not keep going to doctor after doctor to get more blood tests, and she must not spend the rest of her days getting herself treated unnecessarily for syphilis.

As I said a while ago, if she should be one of those women who was early infected by her husband; never had any symptoms, and perhaps in her fifties or sixties was found to have a positive blood test for syphilis, then she should put herself in the hands of a physician, expert in this field of medicine. He may give a stiff course of treatment and then, if she has a normal spinal fluid and no signs of injury to her nervous system, he may say, "Go now and try and forget it. Take no more treatment; you have had enough, and at your age you are not likely to develop any symptoms of the disease."

I would say, don't get confused, as many persons do, by the statement in the Bible to the effect that God visits the "iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation (of them that hate me)." Obviously, taken with the context, this does not suggest any thought of disease; it suggests to me only the idea of the sin of worshipping idols. Actually, I know of no disease that exemplifies this statement: Certainly no known venereal disease does it. Insanity and epilepsy and many nervous diseases are inherited down through many generations — but today — we physicians are sure that these troubles have nothing to do with sins of the parents.

EMPHYSEMA

A miserable disease of the lungs is called emphysema. What happens is that the walls of the thousands of tiny air sacs tend to break down, making larger and larger sacs which have a lessened aggregate surface for the passage of oxygen from the air into the red blood cells in the blood vessels. This leads to inefficient aeration of the blood, and as a result, the man feels short of breath and asthmatic. Many a man who thinks he has chronic heart disease or asthma really has emphysema. His lungs lose their natural elasticity, and this is bad. The chest tends to get big and to stay big and barrel-shaped, with the muscles in the neck contracted. The man tends to have an anxious look, and perhaps a slight blue tinge in his skin due to the defective aeration of his blood.

Now come Drs. Francis C. Lowell, William Franklin, Alan L. Michelson and I. W. Schiller, of Boston, to report a study of 40 emphysematous patients that showed that all got into trouble after the age of 40 and after many years of heavy smoking.

The majority of inhabitants here are Finnish, Mrs. Phyllis Nicholson, operator and agent in charge, speaks both Finnish and English fluently.

About 100 subscribers will be served by the exchange, that will be connected to Alert Bay, six miles southeast, by a submarine cable.

Ladysmith Merchants Approve New Hours

LADYSMITH—Subject to the approval of Ladysmith electors, local retail stores in the near future will close all day Wednesday and remain open until 8 p.m. Friday evenings.

These were the two main decisions to emerge from a representative meeting of city retail merchants held in the city council chambers Monday evening.

In order to change the weekly holiday from Thursday afternoon, which is now observed, to a full day Wednesday, provincial legislation requires that the approval of the electors must be obtained in a referendum vote, and before the city council can hold such a referendum, there must be an application from the merchants, accompanied by a petition signed by 10 per cent of the electors.

Nanaimo Board Seeks to Hire Park Director

NANAIMO—The idea of hiring a parks superintendent was given partial approval by commissioners at a meeting of the Parks Board Monday.

Chairman E. Blackburn's feelings on the subject were that a superintendent would be a great advantage, especially in the event that Bowen Park may soon be under jurisdiction of the board. Assistance also will be needed with Civic Arena grounds and eventually to cope with Newcastle Island, now city property.

The parks superintendent would have to be an all-round man having engineering ability and landscaping, executive, and secretarial qualifications. The superintendent would be secretary of the board, it was explained.

The commission noted that parks superintendents were successfully employed in Vancouver, New Westminster, and Surrey, and could be used to advantage here. Suggested salary for the position was $3,600 per annum.

Mrs. G. Rodger was named social convener for the year, and members of the manse committee are Mrs. B. Risley and Mrs. G. Frayne. It was reported that during the year the auxiliary turned $100 over to the church stewards to help with expenses of the new church hall, and made a cash donation toward the Sunday school Christmas party.

AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

CAYCUSE—An open forum conducted by Vancouver Sun columnist Jack Scott on the question of juvenile delinquency not only presented some interesting viewpoints from letter-writers in both the adult and teen-age groups, but set me speculating on our fortunate freedom from that problem in our own community.

There has been a considerable number of young people who have been raised here, through their teens and into adulthood, in the 30 years of this community's existence. So far there has been a complete absence of what is popularly known as hoodlums. Mischief, certainly, and disturbing elements of adolescent conflict, but no acts of viciousness or even mild violence.

It seems to me that perhaps this happy state of affairs, in what is probably a fair sample of any small community, is due a great deal to the fact that this district is primarily a one-industry concern. With equality in wages and a consequent equality in living standards, there's no compulsion to "keep up with the Joneses." We are, in a way, all Joneses. Our homes, similar in design, are warm and cheerful, decorated and furnished with a basic simplicity. The kids, well-fed, plainly clothed, stoutly shod, are educated together in the same schools. Their dads are, almost without exception, all "logger-types." So they grow up with a well-balanced set of values, and the sense ingrained in their beings that all are equal—the same set of values that discounts envy and greed, and instills a life-long habit of meeting one's fellowman on common ground.

Perhaps not a solution to a problem that gravely concerns us all, but an idea—that too many kids grow up apart from, and not enough a part of, the scheme of things, the sense of belonging to all youth everywhere.

Riddle: What is it that a girl loses at 16 and doesn't regain until the birth of her first child? Uh, huh. The Family Allowance.

My neighbor says one thing she doesn't like about borrowing is that she feels that she's honor-bound to return a little more of, say, coffee, sugar, flour, etc., than she borrowed. That, she says, is poor economy.

BILL WALKER—Sports Editor

10 Victoria Daily Times WEDNESDAY, JAN. 25, 1956

IT'S MY VIEW BY Bill Walker

Whistle stops and detours from here to Winnipeg and return.

It was a pleasure being with the Cougars on their safari to the prairies; now we know how the other half lives.

By bus, ship, plane and train they traveled.

Clickety clack, clickety clack... or 10 days out of a suitcase, most of it in lower four.

The itinerary of the trip was something like this.

FRIDAY, Jan. 13, 11:15 a.m.—Report to Vancouver Island Coach Lines for bus transportation to Nanaimo... two stops en route to allow an over-heated engine to cool... ice cream cones at Duncan... 2:00 p.m., departure for Nanaimo... 2:05, bridge, "I'd love to"... 3:30, dinner aboard ship... 4:30, arrival at Vancouver... 4:48, check into hotel... 7:00, leave for Vancouver forum... 8:30, game against the Canucks... 12:30, curfew.

SATURDAY—8:00-12:00 a.m., breakfast... afternoon, movies, the inevitable pre-game steak, pre-game nap... 6:45, leave for New Westminster... 8:30, game against Royals... 11:00-12:00, anxiously await result of examination of Colin Kilburn's injured eye... 12:30 a.m., post game snack; no curfew.

SUNDAY—Breakfast at players' discretion... 2:00 p.m., leave by bus for CNR station... 2:45, don't CNR Super Continental for Edmonton... 2:50, don't T-shirts and travelling slacks... 2:55, bridge? "Certainly, I use Culbertson"... 3:00, dinner call, no absences... 7:10, bridge, crib, light reading, rub downs for injured players... 10:12, bed or clubhouse session in smoker... 12 midnight, few prowlers left.

MONDAY—1:35 p.m., arrive Edmonton... 1:40, transfer luggage to private car for trip to Saskatoon... 2:00, check by medical specialist of Kilburn's eye... 3:00, steak dinner (again), or, by permission, a visit with relatives and friends... 5:00, pre-game nap... 7:00, journey by taxi to Edmonton Gardens... 8:15, game against Flyers... 10:10, game over, rush begins to catch CNR daily to Saskatoon... 10:30, arrive North Edmonton station; train late. Stranger noted in crowd huddled around pot-belly stove is referee Eddie Powers who can't say where he's going... 10:40, board train (with stranger)... 10:45, Kilburn passes out sandwiches and goodies from thoughtful relatives... 11:00, bull session in smoker.

TUESDAY—6:30 a.m., arrive Saskatoon... 7:00, club manager Fred Hutchinson stirs, recalling date with Scotty Monro of Humboldt team... 8:00, notice queer feeling in right ear... 8:30, queer feeling diagnosed as frost-bite... 8:45, outside temperature reported at 12 below... 8:46, roll over... 9:30, quick dash for restaurant... 11:30 a.m., meet Monro and learn of three good juniors who may be Cougars next year (or even this season)... 12:30, bridge? "Sure, I can use the extra cash"... 4:00, the biggest steak yet... 5:30, still some steak left... 7:30, leave for arena... 7:45, meet unhappy Doug Bentley... 8:30, game against Quakers... 10:30, learn from Doug Bentley he'd like to play anywhere... 12:00, return to lower four... 1:00 a.m., answer bell call in lower four.

WEDNESDAY—8:00 a.m., surprised to see Saskatoon skyline again, train being late... 9:12, leave Saskatoon... 3:30, telegram for Mr. Hutchinson requesting team detrain at Rivers... 3:40, roast beef for all on short order by courteous CNR crew... 5:05, detrain Rivers, board bus for airport... 6:10, board TCA Viscount, courtesy Winnipeg Warrior owner Jack Perrin and TCA representative Stan Mooney... 6:16, Viscount airborne... 6:49, Viscount lands at Stevenson Field, Winnipeg... 7:00, team poses for picture (with stewardesses)... 7:10, board bus for arena... 8:00, game against Warriors... 10:00, bull session with Lynn Patrick, Muzz Patrick, Jack Perrin, etc., etc... 1:00 a.m., more boisterous bull session in hotel, group now joined by Alf Pike, Warrior coach, Joe Cooper, former Ranger, Dennis Ball, Ranger scout... 2:00 a.m., visit from hotel detective who recognizing old friend in Lynn Patrick, departs... 2:30 a.m., compulsory visit from same detective who lingers rather than warns... 2:45, mission completed, detective departs; so do guests.

THURSDAY—10 a.m., team departs for Brandon; Hutchinson confers with Patrick brothers... 12:00, check with Hutchinson, Patrick brothers for news story... 12:30, no news story... 1:30, greet football arrivals in hotel lobby... 1:45, scurry between doorway and taxi, outside temperature 28 below... 2:30, call on friends... 6:00, confers with Patrick again... 8:00, sit on radiator at Olympic rink... 9:00, leave same radiator... 10:00, bedtime snack.

FRIDAY—10 a.m., board train for Brandon... 1:05, met at Brandon station by hockey enthusiast L. G. Crawford of Brandon Sun... 2:30, meet coach Frank Boucher of Regals... 2:34:00, learn of great hockey interest in Brandon and plight of Boston Bruins... 6:00, enjoy Brandon hospitality at "wild duck" dinner... 8:30, game against Regals; see interest in near capacity crowd... 12:50, board CPR "Canadian" for trip to Calgary... 1:10 a.m., enter lower four.

SATURDAY—1:25 p.m., arrive Calgary, ask about brown coloring on ground; informed said coloring is ordinary mud... 1:30-2:00, still marvel at odd sight... 2:05, doff sweater, gloves, extra pair of socks, ski pyjamas, ear muffs, transfer luggage to private car... 3:00, make short tour of city... 4:00, end tour at steak house... 5:00, renew acquaintance with old air force chum... 8:00, meet former Victoria baseball and footballer, Vic Dovey... 8:30, game against Stars... 10:30, wish game hadn't been played... 1:00 a.m., board train for Vancouver... 1:20, lower four.

SUNDAY—Bridge? don't mind if I do? Crib? Sure, I'll enter the tournament? Then Kamloops... the visitor was Howie Hornby who may be a Cougar by the weekend... 11:15, crib tournament ends... bridge debts tabulated, but not settled!!!... 11:30, arrive Vancouver... 11:40, board Victoria boat.

MONDAY—7:00 a.m., disembark from boat... 7:01, revel in thought you don't need to shovel what Victoria skies generally give out... 7:15-8:00, pass out pacifying gifts to warden and charges... 8:30, duty calls... 8:31, wonder who was the so and so who said "you can't beat the hours"... 6:30 p.m., take post-trip nap... 9:30, awakes and take, post, post-trip nap. And how! And not in lower four!

'LOSE BY WINNING'

Junior Clubs Seek Bigger Playoff Cut

TORONTO (BUP)—The junior "A" council of the Ontario Hockey Association Monday night demanded that the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association "get out" of Memorial Cup playdowns because a club now "loses money by winning."

Hap Emmis, coach of Barrie Flyers, said at a council meeting the CAHA takes too much of the gate. He said the Barrie-Quebec series in 1951 drew more than $100,000 and Barrie received only $4,200.

The council agreed to suggest at the CAHA's annual meeting in Montreal in May that the national body receive a yearly grant of $30,000 from the pro-gate, he said.

Professional leagues, and registration fees on a sliding scale from the 65,000 registered hockey players in Canada.

Manager Stafford Smythe of the Toronto Marlboros said that would mean the CAHA would have money to cover losses if a playdown loses money. "If it makes money, the two participating clubs would share the profit," he said.

MARCEL'S MARCEL RUINED

Tousled but tickled to death, Victoria Cougars goalie and new papa, Marcel Pelletier gets the traditional scalp massage from three of his teammates after blanking Seattle Americans, 4-0, at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

Dutchmen in a Walk Say Olympic Experts

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—Canada's Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen are such prohibitive favorites for the Olympic hockey title that most of the pre-tournament speculation concerns the runner-up spot.

Most competent observers here believe, the green-and-white uniformed Allan Cup champions will take the title in a walk. The belief was strengthened Tuesday among observers of the Dutchmen's 90-minute workout.

Soccer Lead Up for Grabs

Another first-place battle looms in Victoria and District Football Association's first division action this weekend.

JBA, currently in a tie with Heaneys for top spot in the loop, will take on Victoria West Saturday at Athletic Park in an effort to regain solitary possession of the upper berth, while Heaneys can keep pace with a win over Esquimalt at Beacon Hill Park on Sunday.

In second division action over the weekend, Butlers take on Dutch Wanderers at Beacon Hill Park Saturday, while Brodies and Tillimons clash at Heywood Avenue Park, and Queen's Own Rifles meet Duncan at Central Park on Sunday.

Canada's Entry Mostly Fit; Scholes Suffers Eye Injury

CORTINA, Italy (BUP)—

Canadian ice hockey manager Ernie Goman took care forward George Scholes to a doctor for special injections Monday in an effort to get him fit for the opening games of the 1956 Olympic championship.

Scholes gashed his right eye during a workout Monday when he crashed into a net support pole on the stadium.

"He had three stitches inserted," coach Bobby Bauer said.

Scholes will probably be rested on opening day anyway because the Waterloo-Kitchener Dutchmen open their tilt at the Olympic crown with an "easy" game against Germany Thursday.

"Otherwise," said Bauer, the "squad is in pretty good shape." The Canadians worked out

Monday morning and tonight after the Austria-Sweden exhibition on the Olympic rink.

The Maple Leafs strengthened their favorite position with every workout. They mixed fast skating and slick shooting with rough and tumble mixups. They looked good throughout.

Most of the Canadian hockey players and skiers were in the foyer of their headquarters hotel here when skier Andy Tommy of Ottawa arrived to watch his competitors from the sidelines. Tommy broke his right leg in two places at a St. Anton, Austria, ski meet a few weeks ago and still walks with crutches and a plaster-clad foot.

"No, I don't feel too downhearted to be missing the Olympics," he said in answer to a question. "I'm happy because I'm walking again within such a short space of time after the accident."

Clarence Downey said his three speed skaters "have conquered the altitude bogey."

Downey said he thought Johnny Sands during the games would chop a second off his 42.7 seconds clocking Sunday. The existing world record is 40.8.

Downey will probably take Gordon Audley and Ralph Olin to the world championships in Oslo, Norway, Feb. 11 and 12, eking out expenses by taking part in several minor meets in Norway. Pat Ramage said her skiers were in "good shape" but suffering like the skiers from all other teams from lack of good snow conditions. The giant slalom course, especially, is very dangerous at the moment with rocks poking through at several crucial points.

Cheryl Got Hers And Pete Got His

Pelletier Blanks Amerks; Durham Draws Suspension

Victoria 4, Seattle 0
By BILL WALKER

Cheryl Anne doesn't know Pete Durham, and probably cares less.

But between them they occupied centre stage at Memorial Arena Tuesday night.

For Cheryl Anne, it was her first revelation that Pop's an appreciative guy.

For Pete, it was the recurrence of past revelations that hockey officials are to be obeyed, not objected to, with violence.

First to Pop.

It was 7:22 p.m. Tuesday when Cougar goalie Marcel Pelletier got the word—he was the father of a nine pound, 11 ounce daughter, his second.

It was 10:32 p.m. when Cheryl Anne and Mrs. Pelletier got the word—Marcel had scored a shutout to celebrate the occasion.

But it was more important than just an ordinary shutout.

The 4-0 blanking of the Seattle Americans by the Cougar custodian was his seventh shutout of the season. That equals the Western Hockey League record held by Calgary's Bill Brennan and John Bower of the Canucks.

It was also Pelletier's third consecutive shutout on Victoria ice, New Westminster Royals and Vancouver Canucks having been the previous victims.

Cheryl Anne should be pleased, just as Marcel showed his pleasure at her arrival, and the excellent support he received from his mates, who joined with him in fashioning the gift.

His chores were relatively easy, Seattle coach Billy Reay admitting his Americans "skated at their worst this season."

Pete Joins Pat on Sidelines

And now to Pete Durham.

Pete took violent exception to an interference call against Ross Watson of the Seattle Americans in the third period, swinging at and nicked linesman Ross Valliere, poked at and ripped the pocket off referee Eddie Powers' shirt.

Today Pete has paid the penalty. He has been suspended indefinitely by WHL president Al Leader. He will not be permitted to play until he has had a hearing before Leader.

He is the second Seattle player so penalized. Pat Coburn was suspended Sunday for high-sticking Bob Dawes of New Westminster Sunday.

The occurrence took place as Colin Kilburn was knocked over by Ross Watson in front of the Seattle bench. Referee Eddie Powers didn't see the play, but linesman Ross Valliere did, and advised Powers (which is his right if queried), as to what happened. Kilburn, meanwhile, lay prone on the ice. Powers accepted the information and whistled a penalty against Watson.

Ired at the call, Durham unslashed both barrels at Valliere and Powers in the melee that followed while Ed Dorohoy was at his oratorical best.

Before the swinging had ended, Durham was gone for the night with a game misconduct and so was Dorohoy with a 10-minute misbehavior.

And uncomplimentary too was Reay over the incident.

Simply, Reay accused Cougar captain Colin Kilburn of faking injury to get a penalty called.

"Kilburn" said Reay, "didn't have to do that; he's too good a hockey player."

Kilburn as Reay spoke, was having the injury incurred from Watson rubbed out on the dressing room table.

To live matters more, Sam Lavitt tested Kilburn's wrestling knowledge as the game drew to a close. This was a draw.

Powers declined to reveal what his official report would say, Durham implied he'd be ready and waiting for the Cougars Saturday and Sunday at Seattle.

Until the third-period uprising, the Cougars had supplied most of what there was to watch in a hockey way. The Americans had few chances, while the Cats were quick to capitalize on theirs.

Colin Got the Cats Rolling

And guess who started it for the Cougars? Kilburn.

On a two-man break with Doug Macauley, he took a blocked pass off the skates of Jack Bovnass and rifled a low shot into the corner past Charlie Hodge at 15:58.

Before that Nels Bullock had two good chances on breaks, but his sights were off. Not so, however, in the second period. Given a passout from the corner by Doug Anderson, he blazed a high shot by Hodge at 2:21 to give the Cougars a 2-0 lead.

Skip Teal, who played despite a leg injury, set up the third and scored the fourth goal. He passed Don Chiupka into the clear at 13:57 for the rookie centre's 12th goal of the year, and then, on a break with Jim Robertson, fired home his 16th tally of the season at 19:57.

Kilburn's goal was his 31st of the year, high in the western division and one behind Sid Finney of Calgary, while Pelletier, by his shutout and Vancouver's 2-2 tie with Saskatoon, now is only two goals behind Ray Mikulan in the goalies' race.

It may be incidental to most, but to those who know the feel of a groin injury, Pelletier's shutout was the more noteworthy. He was still suffering the effects of a double ailment of this nature incurred at Calgary, Saturday.

No one else has scored on Pelletier since Ed Stankiewicz of the Flyers dented the twine at 8:18 of the third period of the January 2 game. That's a total of 261 minutes and 42 seconds of shutout hockey at Memorial Arena.

Happy birthday, Cheryl Ann, from Pop.

Quakers Tie Canucks; Stamps Blast Regals

Saskatoon 2, Vancouver 2

Calgary 6, Brandon 3

Jim Ross was measured for the heat seat that is the Saskatoon Quakers coaching job, Tuesday night and was a near-perfect fit.

Playing their first game under the whip of Ross, who followed Doug Bentley and Jackie McLeod into the transitory job, the Quakers came from behind to tie Vancouver Canucks, 2-2. While the tie may not appear to be an especially auspicious start for Ross, it becomes a larger achievement in that it ended a nine-game losing streak for the Quakers.

Quakers, cellar dwellers in the Western Hockey League's prairie division, did it the hard way Tuesday, spotting the powerful Canucks a two-goal lead and then roaring back with two quick goals in the final 10 minutes of the game to tie it. An overtime period failed to break the deadlock.

The first period was scoreless but Vancouver jumped into the lead when Bruce Carmichael pulled the trigger in the second period and Ray Cyr made it 2-0 in the third period.

Quakers finally cracked the Canuck defence when Earl Ingarfield scored at 10:05 of the third period with a backhand shot and former coach McLeod started the play for the tying goal, laying down a pass that was converted by Elsie Kobussen.

Meanwhile, the Calgary Stampede opened up a five-point lead in the Prairie circuit, as they piled up a 6-3 lead over Brandon Regals before 4,028 Calgary fans.

Dave Duke came out to fire in two goals, Sid Finney, Doc Couture, Bill Shvetz and Barry Ross scoring the others. Brandon scorers were Ray Manson with two and Murray Wilkie.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

But, from now on, they won't be saying much at all, except perhaps, "Remember old Jim Kinna?"

The big colorful pachyderm of the Vancouver Pileers said it himself Saturday—he has had his lacrosse career.

Kinna was stretched out—all 210 pounds of him—beside the furnace in the caretaker's room at Athletic Park. He had arrived in advance of the Pileers' soccer team, for whom he plays goal.

"I'm finished with lacrosse," Kinna said. "What's the use of playing a whole season for 85 bucks? That's what we got last year—85 bucks. I can make a hell of a lot more than that driving a cab on lacrosse nights."

"Another reason that I'm quitting is that Johnny Cavallin is getting out and I don't want to be playing for any club that he isn't on. I'd walk to the end of the earth for that guy, and listen, Buddy, I don't like walking."

Kinna offered the opinion that the Pileers' dynasty was coming to an end in lacrosse. This is the same dynasty that has seen the team named Burrards, Combines, and Vancouver Lacrosse Club.

He said that Cavallin, Johnny Dale and George Gray of the executive were pulling out of the game and that, in addition to himself, Denny Huddleston, Alex McKay, Bob Marsh, Jack Marsh, Ed Hanson and Harry Buchanan, were thinking of severing their ties with lacrosse.

Amalgamation Only Salvation

"It's the end for our club," said Kinna. "But if Pileers and Indians amalgamate, it could save lacrosse in Vancouver. Everyone seems to be in favor of it, and when we held a team meeting a while back, I voted for it, even though I won't be playing. It's not just a case of whether they want to amalgamate; they have to do it. It's the only thing that will save the game."

You know what it was like on our club last year? Well, we'd be coming over to Victoria for a game. Cavallin would phone all the guys and they'd say, "Sure, John, we'll see you at the airport." So then half the guys don't show up and we have to bring over a team loaded with green juniors. Then everyone gives us a hard time about bringing in a weak team."

For no apparent reason, Kinna shifted into another subject on which he has devoted considerable thought—referees.

"Those referees last year—horrible. One game there, I was only on the floor six minutes. Rest of the time I was sitting in the penalty box. A guy chops me over the head with his stick so I go after him. He gets a five-minute penalty; I get 10. What is a guy supposed to do when you get referees doing things like that?"

Atonement for a Broken Back

Folks out this way figure they have seen Kinna at his most colorful, but they haven't.

There was a time in 1951, when Jim was playing for Peterborough.

"We were playing against Hamilton in one of the first games of the season. Dootch Vitarelli goes into the corner, draws my check with him and then tosses me one of those high lob passes. I reach 'way up to get it and this guy named Al Doyle butt-ends me right in the middle of the back. He broke my back. I was paralyzed from the waist down for three weeks and in a body cast for the rest of the season. Three games before the end of the season, I decided I wanted to play again, just to even up with Doyle."

"I cut the sides of the body cast so I could move around and dressed for the last game of the season against Hamilton. Doyle tried to check me in the first quarter, so I took my stick, two-handed like I was swinging an axe, and I cut him for 43 stitches."

"They suspended me a couple of days later, but I didn't care because by that time I was on my way back to the coast."

DICK DUFF REAL COMER

The Kid's Got It—Ted

By The Canadian Press

Ask young Dick Duff who his hockey idol is and he'll say left-winger Ted Lindsay.

Ask ol' scarface Lindsay to name an outstanding rookie left-winger in the National Hockey League and he'll say Dickie Duff.

These two fellows have a mutual admiration for each other although they're on different teams.

"Who wouldn't like to be like Ted," says Duff of the great Detroit Red Wing forward.

"The kid's got it," says Lindsay. "Duff's going to surprise a lot of players in this league. They're going to find out you can't push him around."

Most players around the circuit don't have to be told of Duff's capabilities. Since the 19-year-old native of Kirkland Lake, Ont., broke into the big time this season with Toronto

Maple Leafs he's shown he can take care of himself. He can also score goals.

"I wouldn't trade Duff for any other left winger in the league," Toronto coach King Clancy said Tuesday. "And don't forget there's some mighty fine talent patrolling the left side."

"Duff has been playing against some of the game's greatest men and he hasn't backed down an inch. When a guy who weighs only 160 pounds can send fellows like Gordie Howe or Bernie Geoffrion flying with a check, he knows how to handle himself."

Duff has scored 12 goals

LIONS START BATTLE FOR 1956 GREY CUP

VANCOUVER (CP)—Toronto will have to fight for the Grey Cup football final if it wants it this year, Phil Webb, general manager of the B.C. Lions said Tuesday.

"Both Vancouver and Toronto will bid for the game next March, and Toronto will have to put up a pretty good campaign to win it back," said Webb, who attended the recent Western Interprovincial Football Union meeting in Winnipeg.

Olympic Hockey Refs Protest Treatment

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (CP)—The 15 Olympic hockey referees held an angry meeting today and approved a joint protest over living accommodations and failure to reimburse them for personal expenses.

Some are reported planning to return home before the games start Thursday unless better accommodation is found.

"Our rooms are terrible... the worst I've seen during 15 years of handling international matches," said Swiss referee Kurt Knausner.

Bunny Ahearn, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, said he would try to straighten the trouble out at a formal meeting with the referees later today.

"I'm surprised at the complaints and will certainly look into them," said Ahearn. "The referees are getting a better deal this year from the Italian Olympic committee than they've ever had before."

LIST COMPLAINTS

The referees, who include at least one from each of the 10 countries competing for the hockey crown, made these specific complaints:

1. The rooms assigned to them—two men to a room—are too small, lack normal amenities like washroom facilities, rugs and easy chairs.
2. All referees paid their own way to Cortina and so far have been unable to get their fares back.
3. They have received no allowance for such expenses as tips.

"We are getting room and board, but that's all," said Hauser. "And remember, under Olympic rules we cannot be paid for refereeing the games."

Teachers Topple Cadets

Normal School put on an effective finishing kick in the final minutes to whisk away a 55-51 victory from Royal Roads Tuesday night in an inter-school basketball game at the Royal Roads gym.

At no time during the game were the clubs separated by more than five points with Normal School holding a 23-22 lead at half-time.

Skippy Montgomery was the outstanding player in the game, piling up 27 points for Normal, while Bill Abbott added 13 to the winners' total.

McAvity paced the cadets with 13 points.

Scorers follow:

Pancho Segura continued his dominance over Australian Rex Hartwig, gaining an 8-5 decision for a 19-5 record in the series.

Nashua, Swaps May Meet Again

CHICAGO (AP)—Nashua and Swaps Tuesday topped a list of 190 nominations for the Arlington Handicap July 30 and the Washington Park Handicap on Labor Day—each $100,000 added events.

"The naming of Nashua and Swaps to the two features indicates that Chicago fans may get another chance to see the star performers return to the scene of some of their greatest triumphs," said Benjamin F. Lindheimer, executive director of Arlington and Washington Parks.

Nashua carried the silks of the late William Woodward, Jr. to victory in two Chicago appearances last year, winning the $100,000 Arlington classic and scoring a stunning 6½-lengths victory over Swaps in a $100,000 match race at Washington Park Aug. 31.

The match race triumph gave the big mahogany bay the three-year-old championship and horse of the year honors.

The previous record was 27.59.2, set by Emil Zatopek of Czechoslovakia at Brussels in June, 1954.

Patronage Charged To Socred Minister

Cranbrook CCF member Leo Nimsick aroused government benches in the Legislature Tuesday with a blunt charge that "there is patronage in this province."

Nimsick said he knew of a highways department worker who was suspended from his job a few days before Christmas, without being told the reason, after 18 years of service.

"I'm sure this was all done through a letter from Social Credit stoolpigeon in that area," charged Nimsick.

He said the defeated Socred candidate in the area then "sent a man down, and put him to work."

When Highways Minister Gagliardi asked "what's it all about?" Nimsick replied "the Laidlaw case."

"This department treats every man fairly and squarely," retorted Gagliardi. He told the House that the man had been suspended several times previously.

"I know it's being done," pressed Nimsick. "This gent just came down and said 'I'm going to work,' and he let it be known the defeated candidate has put him to work."

"Lay out the facts," said Gagliardi.

"I know it's true. I was there," replied Nimsick.

He appealed for establishment of a highway commission.

Annuals Fill Gaps Cover Winter Loss

This coming summer we may find two distinct gardening trends among the home gardeners.

With the unprecedented dearth of color in the winter flower garden since Nov. 11, many of us will be searching for the tiniest flowers, and finding them satisfactory.

During the summer we shall find pleasure in the miniatures plants, and the use of delicately formed annuals to fill temporary gaps in the borders.

Among the annuals, I am thinking of nemesis, one of the daintiest of all, with a long season of bloom; the newer strain of scented nicotiana (flowering tobacco), known as Daylight Sensation, in colors of white, mauve, pink and crimson; and the profusely flowering 10-week stock, which will fill a small garden with perfume for many months.

Others among us will be emphatic in our need for a great show of color as early in the season as possible. We may achieve this effect with annuals also, providing we are willing to make an early start.

Snaps may be in flower almost before the last of the bearded iris fade, if we sow the seed indoors now. Dwarf dah-

CCF MLA Leo Nimsick said Tuesday in the Legislature that Agriculture Minister Kenneth

House Hears Briefly Of Sturdy Case

The Sturdy-Sommers case was the object of only a passing reference in the Legislature Wednesday, after holding the legislative spotlight for almost a week.

Only reference made to the case was by Leo Nimsick, CCF, of Cranbrook.

Nimsick did not mention the principals by name, but said he wondered whether a different course of action would have been followed by the government if one of their own members was not involved.

"I wonder if no action would have been taken if the statutory declaration dealt with an opposition member," said Nimsick.

"At least it should have been cleared up, or the person involved shouldn't have taken his seat until it was cleared up."

Lands and Forests Minister R. E. Sommers is suing Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy for libel and slander. Sturdy appeared before the Sloan commission in December, seeking permission to present a certain body of evidence he said might indicate the minister accepted "private consideration" in the issuing of forest management licences.

Sturdy earlier approached the attorney-general with a statutory declaration on the issue, which Attorney-General Bonner dismissed as "far-fetched."

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

For hi-yu lkt cole, it has been my ambition to be saghalie man on the totem pole.

Alta I am hi-yu kloshe tum-tum to be what-I-said, even if it is only the saghalie man on the bottom third of the totem pole.

So, quick like a kwitichadie, I nu-ac how to take advantage of this situation, and wauwah the delate yiem ehkahnman of the world's elip hi-yu saghalie totem.

(Roughly translated, the above means I'm high man on the lower part of the totem pole, and am going to tell all. From now on, you're on your own.)

Alta ne-wah, tenas tilicum. Nika wauwah of ehkahnman told by carving on world's tallest totem pole. Hyas skookum, that totem pole!

Keekwillie totem is hyas concrete. Saghalie concrete is Bagurnum. Skookum man, Bagurnum. Hi-yu kuit-an. Hi-yu pill dolla. Hi-yu musket. Hi-yu muckamuck. Hi-yu kamosuk. Hi-yu silver.

Saghalie Bagurnum is Huhwug. The less said about Huhwug the better.

Saghalie Huhwug is Makinukw. Klonass kloshe, klonas mesat-chie, that's Huhwug for you every time, except when neither kloshe or mesat-chie seems to cover the situation adequately.

Now, there came a time when Bagurnum, Huhwug, and Makinukw met together in a lapoel.

"Let us klatawa," Bagurnum wauwahed.

"Na-wait-ka," agreed Huhwug (who was being neither kloshe or mesat-chie at the time).

"Wake, Kah-Kwa," cried Makinukw, and the others drew back, muttering to themselves: "Pelton. Scottie. Di-aub," and similar expressions of displeasure.

In fact, Bagurnum went so far as to wauwah "Ikoope la-pote, they're coming in the window."

Continued

But Makinukw hadn't kloshe kah-kwa for this tenas polakille. He knew, even if his tilicums didn't know, they were still in the lapoel.

So he made skookum wauwah. And this is what his skookum wauwah added up to:

"Let us not sopena," wauwahed Makinukw, "from the lapoel into the piah."

And this statement from Makinukw gave Bagurnum and Huhwug reason to pit-tuck.

As we went to press, they were still pit-tuck-ing. So I can't tell you for sure whether the main characters on the world's tallest totem are in the lapoel or the piah.

Jaycees to Start Fluoridation Drive

Planning Meeting Scheduled Monday; Opponents Preparing

A widespread educational campaign for fluoridation of drinking water in Greater Victoria is due to start immediately.

Spearheading the drive is Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The campaign has been carefully planned and will involve all major organizations in this area.

A planning meeting of representatives of the organizations has been set for Monday. A full schedule of meetings will be announced and speakers and chairmen are now being appointed.

Victoria's Esquimalt Union Health Board is on record as favoring fluoridation in this area and has asked support of district municipal councils. Both medical and dental societies have offered full support.

Ex-Mountie Tells Part In Beating

Police Board Retains Towers

Victoria police commission will retain the services of ex-mountie Donald J. Towers, implicated in the beating of a suspect in Prince George.

The commission reached the decision at a meeting Tuesday, but said "further investigation is pending."

Towers appeared before the board and admitted being involved in the beating which ended in a false confession by the suspect, who was a prisoner at the time.

But he said he didn't participate in the beating.

Towers claimed the reason he was disciplined by an RCMP tribunal (the served four months in an RCMP detention barracks) was because he hadn't intervened when the beating was administered by a senior officer.

Reporters were excluded from the meeting when commissioners interviewed Towers, but were allowed to remain during reading of letters pertaining to his employment.

TOLD ALL

The letters showed Towers told Chief Blackstock all about the incident when he applied for a position on the force.

He was hired last November.

Here is the statement issued by the commission after interviewing Towers:

"Regarding Constable D. J. Towers, a former member of the RCMP Prince George detachment at present employed by the Victoria police force; since the police commission had some knowledge of the circumstances regarding his severance from the RCMP and have interviewed him, and considering all the evidence unearthed to date, the commission does not feel justified in dispensing with his services at the present time. Further investigation is pending."

Cross Road For Saanich Under Study

Saanich Council Monday will consider a recommendation of the Saanich Town Planning Commission for the construction of a main east and west road in the municipality.

The commission made a similar recommendation to the former council last November. It was turned down on the grounds that such a project was not practical.

The present council is expected to deal more favorably with the recommendation.

Reeve Arthur Ash said today he is in favor of a crossroad which would link the population in the north and east section of the municipality with the Trans-Canada Highway.

Coun. Ronald Grant, who has studied the plan, is also in favor of the crossroad.

The councillor feels that in a few years such a road will become a necessity in view of the increasing population. The road would also be advantageous to the business as it would cut down travelling time.

Never Know Total Gravel Taken—Ash

Saanich Reeve Arthur Ash, after hearing a report from municipal engineer H. D. Dawson on the controversial Sayward Road gravel pit issue Tuesday night, said it is plain there has been a lack of control in management of the pit.

"I feel we will never know how much gravel was taken because no records were kept," he said.

The reeve's statement came during a three-hour public hearing by an investigating committee headed by Councillor George Austin, chairman of the public works committee. The committee was appointed by Reeve Ash.

The committee did not reach any conclusions but decided to meet again soon.

Here are the highlights of the inquiry:

1. The engineer admitted he hadn't always made written agreements for gravel taken from the pit by the provincial government or private contractors. The transactions, he said, were conducted on the basis of gentlemen's agreements.

2. Contractor W. J. Robertson claimed there are still large quantities of gravel unaccounted for, but he couldn't substantiate a charge of gravel theft. He claimed the municipality had been sold its own gravel for sewer project work.

3. Ex-councillor Robert Fleming, who resigned last year when council wouldn't do anything about his allegations of laxity in the pit's management, said no municipal employees were involved in any dishonest transactions.

The engineer told the committee about 385,000 yards of gravel were taken from the pit since it was bought in 1946.

But contractor Robertson said the figure is closer to 500,000 yards. He produced aerial photographs to show the expansion of the pit year by year.

Mr. Robertson was unable to substantiate an earlier charge that a municipal employee had sold 100 yards of gravel without the consent of the administration. He admitted his information was based on hearsay.

Sailor Hurt In Saanich Road Crash

Hit While Fixing Bike In Early Morning Mishap

A 27-year-old naval rating was in serious condition at Naden Hospital today following an early-morning accident on Interurban Road.

Naval authorities said Andrew Bernard Clements, HMCS Naden, received a broken knee and arm, and facial injuries in a mishap which occurred shortly before 2 a.m.

A second sailor, Ronald Joseph Matthews, was charged at a special sitting of Saanich police court today with criminally negligent driving causing bodily harm to Clements.

He was remanded without election or plea to the regular court sitting Thursday afternoon.

REPAIRING SCOOTER

Saanich police said the injured man was apparently repairing a motor scooter on the west side of Interurban Road between Marigold and Grange when in collision with a car driven by Matthews.

The motor scooter was thrown into a ditch and damaged to the extent of about $150, police said.

The injured sailor was rushed to Royal Jubilee Hospital and later transferred to naval hospital.

He was the second man seriously hurt in overnight accidents.

Fred Wishlow, 55, of Old Mill Motor Court, Island Highway, was crossing the old Island Highway near Six Mile House when in collision with a car.

He suffered a fractured shoulder.

LAPP STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Frank Richard Lapp, 20, 1325 Lang, was still unconscious in hospital today, 17 days after being injured in a "hot-rod" accident.

Hospital authorities said his condition is "very poor."

Lapp was injured in an accident early the morning of Jan. 8 which took the life of John William Hitchin, 23, 1955 Kings.

Tweedsmuir Arranges Reunion With Batman

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Minutes after he arrived in Victoria this morning, Lord Tweedsmuir began looking for a Vancouver Islander who served him as batsman during the war.

"Where can I find Tommy Waitt?" was almost the first question put to me by the slim 45-year-old peer when he stepped off the boat from Vancouver at 8 a.m.

The Empress Hotel switchboard was helpful. They traced Lord Tweedsmuir's ex-batsman to the Nanaimo area where he is now proprietor of Tommy's Cafe on the Island Highway.

And soon after, Tommy Waitt was being invited by phone to visit the hotel for a reunion with his old chief.

Lord Tweedsmuir, here for the first time in 19 years, addressed a joint meeting of Victoria Chamber of Commerce and the men's and women's Canadian Clubs at noon today.

POLAR ROUTE

Lord Tweedsmuir flew out to Vancouver from England this week over Canadian Pacific Airlines' polar route which he describes as "the height of comfort and speed."

Commenting on his recent experiences in London, where he sits in the House of Lords, Tweedsmuir said Britain is now experiencing an "unexampled boom," accompanied by inflation and a rising cost of living.

"We could have taken more drastic steps to arrest inflation but we could not go too far without embarrassing our friends. As it is, I think we have eurbed the inflationary trend and the outlook now is brighter than it has been for some time."

In reference to criticism by B.C. importers that U.K. deliveries are too slow, Lord Tweedsmuir declared:

"This has been caused by the enormous demand for British goods elsewhere. At the same time I think we shall have to pull up our stocks where the Canadian market is concerned.

Distance is the main difficulty and exporters tend to think of countries nearer home. Yet the importance of Anglo-Canadian trade outweighs all geographical considerations.

B.C. BIG MARKET

"British exporters must do all in their power to meet the needs of B.C. consumers. This is obvious since B.C. now buys seven times as much from the U.K. as the U.K. buys from B.C."

He believes Britain must maintain her armed forces at a level commensurate with her position in the world.

He is survived by his widow; a son, Peter, in Vancouver; a daughter, Mrs. Pamela Stone, Nanaimo, and another daughter in England.

Funeral services will be held at St. Matthias' Church Thursday at 1:30 p.m. Rev. Canon F. E. M. Fomalin will officiate.

Funeral Rites Thursday for Cyril Jones

Cyril Jones, Victoria's former city engineer and a well-known alpine climber, died at the Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday. He was 66 years old.

Mr. Jones entered hospital four days ago. He had been in poor health since he underwent a brain operation in Vancouver last August.

He was city engineer from 1949 until his retirement at the end of 1955.

Born in Swansea, Wales, and a resident of Victoria for the past 31 years, Mr. Jones was a veteran of the First World War. He served with the Royal Engineers and was wounded in Flanders.

For a time Mr. Jones was a science master at Brentwood College and a surveyor.

An active outdoor man, Mr. Jones was a member of the Alpine Club of Canada. He had climbed some of the highest peaks on Vancouver Island, as well as in the Rockies.

He is survived by his widow; a son, Peter, in Vancouver; a daughter, Mrs. Pamela Stone, Nanaimo, and another daughter in England.

Funeral services will be held at St. Matthias' Church Thursday at 1:30 p.m. Rev. Canon F. E. M. Fomalin will officiate.

City Takes Legal Action To Recover Beaver Lake

The city Tuesday began legal action to recover Beaver Lake property sold to the Elk Lake Ratepayers' Association by Saanich last September for arrears in taxes.

The city in a writ filed in Supreme Court Registry against the association and Saanich, claims Saanich illegally sold the land. It is asking the court to declare the sale invalid.

Saanich sold the property after the city refused to pay local improvement taxes on the land.

The association which bought the land, has fought the city's plan to lease the property in question as a racetrack site group.

The land was bought for $3,450 by Fred P. Jeune, an officer of the association.

The main legal issue to be argued before the court will be whether Saanich had the right to sell the land for taxes.

The city claims the property, as part of the Beaver-Elk Lake watershed, is exempt from taxation by provincial statute.

If the city should win this point, Saanich will have to return the land from the association and return it to the city.

On the other hand if the city's action should fail, the city will have to pay its arrears in taxes within a year or let the valuable property go to the ratepayers' group.

Bright Plush Scatter Rugs Within Your Budget Range

By PENNY SAVER

A person can grow so used to the overall sight of a thing or place that its gradual deterioration or dowdiness isn't apparent until someone else's eyes notice the need for rejuvenation or doing over. That's what happened to my room. I hadn't really taken a good look at the rugs and mats scattered here and there. Oh yes, I'd notice if they were missing, or when they needed shaking or vacuuming, but that they should be replaced—I never thought of such a thing. Perhaps it was intentional, though, because I knew it would cost a small sum to re-outfit my bedroom with scatter rugs. Imagine how pleased I was to find plush and loop rugs in town at a really reasonable price! The close plush ones with loop fringe are 27 by 44 inches. They're washable, skid resistant, and in bright, novel colors to add sparkle to your room.

They're in forest green, lime, pink, salmon, blue, grey, yellow and white. What more could one want? And the price is wonderful—$2.97.

If you prefer the looped ones, which may be used in the bathroom or bedroom or even as a hall mat, you have a choice of the 27 by 42-inch or the 21 by 32-inch ones. These, too, are washable and skid resistant, and are in pink, yellow, blue, grey, green, mauve, lime, red or forest green. The larger size is $2.57, and the smaller $1.67.

Can I interest you in a warmer? These Mexican shawls or blankets, depending on their use, are finding their way into many homes. You'll see them on chesterfields and chairs, and as covers for small tables. I know of one family who added a couple to their rumpled room, only to find that the whole appearance was changed, with a vivid touch added in just the right places. They vary from the coffee-table cover size, to bedspread size. As lap rugs, car rugs, or, as I mentioned, as bedspreads for the youngsters' room or your own, they are sturdy and easily cleaned.

Hand woven in Mexico, they are a blend of every vibrant hue that is a part of that colorful country. Look ahead, and think how handy one would be in the summer time when it seems we're always looking for a utility blanket to cart off to the beach, the symphony at the gardens, or for sun-soaking on the front lawn. They are priced from $1.98 to $10.00. That's a special price right now.

Overnight or cosmetic cases I came across look very, very expensive. On closer look, though, I discovered the price tag read "$3.95." A pleasant surprise, for I expected a much higher price on these beauties. They're lined, and on the inside of the lid is a handy mirror. There's an all-round zipper, and a easily clutched handle. Square or round, depending on your own taste, these cases are the same price. Match one with your own luggage, 'cause you can buy them in crimson, mottled green, maroon, blue, foam green, oxford tan, or simulated reptile skin. It's easily washed plastic that looks very much like leather.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to buy anything mentioned in the column.

'Dangerous River' Author Speaks at BPW Meeting

Illustrating his narrative with excellent colored slides, R. M. Patterson, author of "Dangerous River," gave the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club a fascinating account of several trips made into remote sections of the Liard, Nahanni and Peace River country, following the regular supper meeting Monday night.

The first part of the talk dealt with the various types of river transportation, flat river boat, large canoe, and in these days, small plane and helicopter. Several pictures showed in detail the difficulties of "tracking" or towing the loaded canoe through wild white water, by means of 100-foot tow-lines, pulled from the shore by the camper, who guides the laden boat as he walks along the shore.

Mr. Patterson has made a number of trips into these little known parts of British Columbia, Northwest Territories and the Yukon. More than one landmark now bears officially the name given it years ago by him and his companions.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Madge Hall and thanked by Miss Lees. The club president, Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, presided at the supper which preceded the talk.

Wife of Methodist Missionary Anticipating Return to Africa

By KITT DIXON

There's a thrilling welcome awaiting Mrs. Margaret Collett when she returns, in early February, to Ruanda-Urundi, a Belgian trust territory in the heart of Africa.

Beaming native folk will rush to her, take her hands in theirs and bow down... all gestures of affection that will say better than words, "Welcome home, Madamu."

It is two years since the friendly natives of Ruanda-Urundi have seen Mrs. Collett and her husband, Rev. Ronald Collett.

After spending 18 years living with them, teaching them Christianity, reading, writing and improved farming methods, Rev. and Mrs. Collett returned to North America. Here their work has taken them all over the United States and Canada.

Now they are ready to return to their African mission, which has a following of 20,000 people. Rev. and Mrs. Collett are associated with the General Missionary Board of the Free Methodist Church.

NATIVE WELCOME
Mrs. Collett is happily anticipating her return. "We won't have a moment to ourselves for the first few days," she says. "The people will follow us to our home, many bringing gifts of hand-woven baskets filled with garden produce. Around each basket will be a row of leaves, indicating that it is a gift and not for sale."

The Colletts have been more eager to return since they received a letter from Daniel, their former native houseboy.

In his letter, Daniel wrote that the people are anxiously awaiting their arrival.

Daniel was obviously more than a servant to the Colletts. Mrs. Collett is proud when she tells how, through their mission he became first a teacher, then a pastor.

"He went away to bible school for the latter training," she said. "And when he returned he was so fine that he soon worked his way to the position of head pastor."

When Rev. and Mrs. Collett first went to Ruanda-Urundi they found the people living in grass huts, eating with their fingers and unable to read or write.

Now it is an educated Christian community. Some still live in grass huts, but many have built houses of sun-dried brick. With the introduction of such foods as tomatoes and avocados to their crops, they now follow a more nourishing and balanced diet.

Rev. and Mrs. Collett have three children. Sheila, 17, and Marilyn, 14, attend school in the United States. Their son, Byron, eight, will return to Africa with them, where he will attend a grade school operated by the missionaries.

The Colletts leave Halifax, Feb. 11, on the Ss. Ivernia for England, where they will visit relatives and friends. They will fly the remainder of their journey with stopovers at Brussels, Rome, Athens, Cairo and Khartoum.

When the journey begins Mrs. Collett will say "Nakaguruka" ("farewell") in the native language, Kirundi... to her Victoria friends for six years.

Gerald W. Bowden Takes Bride In Ceremony at Portland, Ore.

A trio of attendants, gowned in rich American Beauty red velvet, preceded Marian Louise Carstensen up the aisle of Central Presbyterian Church, Portland, Ore., last Saturday, when she became the bride of Gerald W. Bowden of Victoria.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Carstensen, Portland, and the groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Bowden, 1814, Monteith Street, Victoria.

White stocks and stephanotis decorated the church for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Robert T. McFarlane. Miss Roberta Jeffries was soloist.

The slim, dark-haired bride wore a gown of shimmering white Italian crystallette trimmed with Alencon lace. A matching crown held her fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Nell Johnson was matron of honor for her sister and Mrs. Richard Fox, also a sister of the bride, and Mrs. William Valleand, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their velvet gowns were styled with low torso effect and full skirts. American Beauty and white roses formed their cascade bouquets and they wore crowns of shattered red carnations in their hair.

Gerald K. Shaw, Victoria, was best man, and ushers were Neil A. Johnson, Portland, and Wilfred Fraser and Sub-Lieut. W. R. Valleand, RCN, both of Victoria.

Following the ceremony, the couple received guests in the church social hall, after which refreshments were served at the home of the bride's parents. Red and white carnations and white stocks decorated the rooms.

A bank balance of $2,874.60 with $3,754.80 in the care for the elderly fund and $6,912.01 in the Emma Coudarrie legacy fund was reported by the treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Goodwin.

Other reports were given by Mrs. W. Lowery, Junior and Girls' Auxiliaries; Mrs. A. A. Bates, recording secretary; Mrs. C. D. George, corresponding; Mrs. G. V. Jarvis, Dorcas; Mrs. E. Sigston, candidates; Mrs. B. F. Harding, girls' auxiliary; Miss L. Helliwell, educational; Miss N. M. Nicholson, extra cents.

Canon George Riddle, assisted by Canon G. W. Downer, took the service of communion before the meeting. Mrs. Keith MacDougall showed color pictures of Aklavik where she has lived for the past three and a half years. Mrs. Taylor expressed the vote of thanks.

White stocks and stephanotis decorated the church for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Robert T. McFarlane. Miss Roberta Jeffries was soloist.

The slim, dark-haired bride wore a gown of shimmering white Italian crystallette trimmed with Alencon lace. A matching crown held her fingertip veil and she carried a cascade of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. Nell Johnson was matron of honor for her sister and Mrs. Richard Fox, also a sister of the bride, and Mrs. William Valleand, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. Their velvet gowns were styled with low torso effect and full skirts. American Beauty and white roses formed their cascade bouquets and they wore crowns of shattered red carnations in their hair.

Gerald K. Shaw, Victoria, was best man, and ushers were Neil A. Johnson, Portland, and Wilfred Fraser and Sub-Lieut. W. R. Valleand, RCN, both of Victoria.

Following the ceremony, the couple received guests in the church social hall, after which refreshments were served at the home of the bride's parents. Red and white carnations and white stocks decorated the rooms.

A bank balance of $2,874.60 with $3,754.80 in the care for the elderly fund and $6,912.01 in the Emma Coudarrie legacy fund was reported by the treasurer, Mrs. F. A. Goodwin.

Other reports were given by Mrs. W. Lowery, Junior and Girls' Auxiliaries; Mrs. A. A. Bates, recording secretary; Mrs. C. D. George, corresponding; Mrs. G. V. Jarvis, Dorcas; Mrs. E. Sigston, candidates; Mrs. B. F. Harding, girls' auxiliary; Miss L. Helliwell, educational; Miss N. M. Nicholson, extra cents.

Canon George Riddle, assisted by Canon G. W. Downer, took the service of communion before the meeting. Mrs. Keith MacDougall showed color pictures of Aklavik where she has lived for the past three and a half years. Mrs. Taylor expressed the vote of thanks.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Here's Way to Apply Polish For Proper 'Nail Styling'

We always are reading and thinking about hair styling. Have you realized that there is such a thing as "nail styling"? This depends on the manner in which you apply your polish.

If your nails are naturally long and narrow, leave off the tips or the half moon. If they are short and wide, apply polish over the entire nail. Also do not take the polish all the way to the sides of the nail. Leave a hairline of uncovered nail at the sides.

If you do not have beautifully tapered, slender fingers, console yourself with the knowledge that the hands of many of the artistically famous folk are short and sometimes even stubby.

Here are a few more hints about nail care:

1. If the cuticle about your nails is at all dry, massage cuticle oil or cream into the skin about the nails every night. This is a good thing to do any time during the winter months.
2. Keep your hands soft by using a hand lotion several times a day, and always after they have been in water. Also use the lotion on your elbows frequently. It is a good idea to sleep in cotton gloves once a week, after massaging a hand cream into the skin.

3. Hot water makes the nails soft. Never file them immediately after a bath or when they are wet or damp.

4. Use a pencil to dial telephone numbers and learn to use the cushion of your fingers when opening a bobby pin or turning on a light.

5. Use lemon juice or polish remover or peroxide to remove stains.

5. Keep the tops of your nail polish bottles clean. This will prevent thickening and evaporation.

7. Hand exercises help keep the fingers flexible and firm.

If you would like any leaflet of hand exercises sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 12 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

CAC Plans Membership Campaign

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers will launch a nation-wide membership campaign April 9.

Miss Isabel Atkinson of Saskatoon, national chairman of the CAC membership campaign and Saskatchewan president of the organization, arrived in Ottawa this week to begin plans for the week-long drive.

The CAC, with some 10,000 individual members and 6,000 group memberships, is supported by nearly all major women's provincial and/or national organizations.

The April membership drive will be the first sponsored by the CAC. Miss Atkinson said the CAC hopes to have about 50,000 members by 1957, when the consumer organization will celebrate its 10th anniversary.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

If the windows in a room don't match and you'd like them to, you can make them seem the same with skilful use of draperies and valances, building up the smaller ones or paring down the larger.

Tired of the same old canned soups for lunch? Try mixing them, two or three at a time—potato with chicken, mushroom with shrimp, etc. It's an easy way to add variety.

Creamed dried beef seasoned with curry powder, served over waffles is a luncheon idea. Plates look appealing when garnished with a spiced peach or a sprig of parsley.

If baby's at the toddling-climbing stage, now's the time to practice keeping chairs, ottomans and other climbable furniture away from windows. Springtime plus open windows plus eager-beaver baby could spell tragedy.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Barker
(MOTHER OF 3)

With a brand-new baby in the house, mothers frequently tire themselves by trying to do more than their share of baby-care, housework and husband-care. If you're a mother who's trying to cram 48 hours into 24, you may find these hints helpful:

- Tend to baby's needs first. Add household chores slowly.
- Let things that can wait, wait.
- After you finish one chore, relax before you start another.

Early addition to baby's bill of fare: vitamin C, to help keep baby's gums and body tissues in good condition.

Gerber's Strained Orange Juice, specially processed for tiny ones, has a uniformly high vitamin-C content the year around. Made from tree-ripened oranges, selected for mild, natural flavor and appealing color. Careful pasteurization insures purity. Careful straining makes it easy to feed from spoon, bottle or cup.

Nipple note! Nipples will last longer if you turn nipples inside out and suds-cleanse thoroughly. Butter fat deteriorates rubber.

Bottle bit. If nursing bottles get cloudy, a tablespoon of vinegar in the rinse water will re-sparkle 'em.

Spoon-fed foods in sight for baby? In all likelihood, cereal will be suggested first. Gerber's 5 Cereals should fill the bill beautifully... Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal for easy introduction of variety. Flavors are distinctive but bland enough to suit baby's unsophisticated palate. Texture is creamy-smooth. All are enriched with iron, calcium and B vitamins. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Ltd., Niagara Falls, Canada.

Don't Double Date With Date Stealer

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

There are always girls who like to take boys away from other girls. What should a girl do when she is the victim of such treatment?

(Q)—"I was very much interested in your column today which told about a girl whose older sister tried to take away her boy friends. My best friend does just the same thing to me. We have gone together since we were in first grade and now we are both juniors in high school. Whenever I get a new boy friend, she suggests we have a double date. I always agree because I am somewhat shy and it is hard for me to go out on a date with a boy I barely know. My girl friend is always the life of any party and I never have to worry about keeping the conversation going when she is around. The trouble is the boy asks her out on a date and doesn't ask me again. I know she likes to be popular but I resent the way she takes the boys away from me. Should I break up with her? In every other way, we are very congenial."—B. L. H.

(A)—If you and your friend are as congenial as you seem to think you are, it would be very foolish to break up your friendship. Friends are not so easily found that you can afford to discard one who is congenial, even when it may mean losing your boy friends.

You are as much to blame for this problem, it seems to me, as your friend is. You are depending too much on her to carry the ball for you in your social relationships and then, when she makes a good job of it, you resent the outcome.

Try, in the future, to handle your own dates and don't rely upon your friend to help you out. Go out with the boys alone and don't ask your friend to make it a double date. By doing this, you give your date an opportunity to see your friend in comparison with you and, as she has more poise and greater social skills, she shows up better by comparison.

Should she suggest a double date, tell her frankly it doesn't work for you. If she is a good friend of yours, she will understand and will even go further and help you to develop some of the social skills you now lack.

Standards Committee Works on Clothing Sizes; Women Help

OTTAWA (CP)—A group of about 20 garment manufacturers, retailers, research and government officials is expected to meet in Ottawa next month in an effort to bring clothing size standards a bit closer to reality.

Tentative date for a meeting of the committee on Standard Garment Sizes is Feb. 23. Three women, representing the Canadian Association of Consumers, are members of the group which was set up in 1952 by the Canadian government specifications board of the national research council.

The committee hopes to prepare the way for final standard sizes for children's clothes at this meeting. D. Wolochow, secretary of the standards board, said, "A size system for women's clothing also will be discussed."

J. A. Hanna, a member of the specifications board and secretary of the committee, said at present there is "no meaning to size designations at all."

The aim of the studies and discussions is to arrive at standard sizes which could be incorporated in the Canadian Standards Act.

Under this act, manufacturers who use the Canadian standard label must comply with specifications of the act.

dry clothes in minutes instead of hours

It takes your dryer only a few minutes to do the job that used to take you hours. You save all that time you had to spend carrying heavy baskets of washing out to the line, pegging it up, and taking it off again. And, you never have to wait until the weather is right—you can wash and dry, rain or shine, day or night. Things dry so quickly you need fewer clothes for the children—fewer cottons and linens for the household. You'll like the way your washing looks when it comes from the dryer, fresh, clean—all set to put away or dampened ready for ironing.

Ex-Train Fireman Heads MacMillan's

B.C.-Born H. S. Berryman Appointed President of Giant Lumber Company

H. S. Berryman, once a locomotive fireman with the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company, today becomes president of MacMillan and Bloedel, British Columbia's biggest forest industry concern.

The way to his promotion was paved by the retirement Tuesday of 70-year-old Harvey Reginald MacMillan from the position of chairman of the board.

But Mr. MacMillan remains on the board and will be chairman of the finance and policy committee.

Stepping into the chairmanship is B. M. Hoffmeister, who has been president of MacMillan and Bloedel since the amalgamation in 1951.

Mr. Berryman, who has been vice-president in charge of production, is a native son of B.C. He was born at Port Simpson, near Prince Rupert, and went to Alberni as a youth. There he was employed by the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company in 1927 as a fireman.

Later he became timekeeper for all of the company's logging operations until 1938, when he was appointed office manager. In 1941 Mr. MacMillan called him back to Port Alberni to manage the plywood mill then under construction.

In 1949 he moved from the Wine Steward High Ranking Blood Donor

MONTREAL (CP)—Clement Dodier, 40-year-old wine steward, ranks high on the Red Cross list of blood donors.

Mr. Dodier, native of France, came to Canada after the Second World War and since then has been astonishing Red Cross officials with his blood-giving ability.

His record includes 330 donations in France and 135 in Canada—all since 1939—and his record for a month has been five pints. On his best day he gave 1,000 cubic centimetres of blood, or 2½ times more than a regular blood bottle holds.

REGULAR VISITOR

In most cases, the Red Cross transfusion service recommends that donors come only three times a year. Dodier donates once a month with permission, although he is checked constantly.

His blood is the "O" or universal type.

Doctors credit his amazing abilities to the fact that his body absorbs iron much more quickly than normal.

Dr. Cecil Harris, medical supervisor of the transfusion service, explained that usually the iron content in blood is made up within four to six weeks after a transfusion. Dodier makes his up in less than a month.

The stocky little steward, father of three, has some ideas of his own on the subject. He gives much credit for his prodigious production to the 70 ounces of red Bordeaux or Burgundy he drinks daily.

DIET IS FACTOR

He also credits the fact that he does not smoke, has a happy family life, and eats plenty of fruit and vegetables with a high iron content.

For his services he has been awarded the Médaille Civile Française and the Médaille de Sang de Paris, as well as a diploma from the Canadian Red Cross.

"He certainly is a remarkable fellow," says Dr. Harris. "Handy to have around a blood bank."

Prosecutor Bigelow Retained Under New Legal Service Plan

City prosecutor Alan Bigelow will continue in that post after city legal business transfers to a private firm in April.

Victoria police commission Tuesday approved a plan submitted by T. P. O'Grady to have Mr. Bigelow become associated with his firm and carry on as prosecutor.

Mr. O'Grady has been granted a $20,000 contract commencing in April. The switch to a private firm was decided by city council on the retirement of city solicitor Arthur Patton.

Commissioner William Hamilton said Mr. O'Grady will be legal adviser to the commission and be directly responsible under the new scheme.

A preliminary budget of $184,600, an increase of $16,000 over last year, was approved by the commission. Included are expenditures for five new prowler by the 1955 commission, was tabled until investigation of the system used in Vancouver. Commissioners William Hamilton and Gordon Carter will visit the mainland city on a fact-finding tour soon.

Police salaries at present total $405,000 but this figure will rise to more than $434,000 if police and city inside workers concerned with police administration receive wage boosts now being negotiated.

Chief John Blackstock declined to state at the meeting why he needed more men, but said he would tell the mayor in private.

The tentative budget included an expense of $800 for "secret service," an annual police expense which is never publicly explained, and is lumped with other expenses in the final city budget.

OF COURSE, you don't get wings with this sleek and stunning new '56 Buick—but you can get the nearest thing to them.

It's all as simple as it's thrilling.

At take-off, a pilot sets the pitch of his propellers for all-out acceleration. Aloft, he switches to cruising pitch for top mileage.

You can do that, too, in a '56 Buick. Just floor the pedal and you switch the Dynaflo blades to high-performance angle. That gets you going instantly at full-power sweep. Then, just ease up on the pedal, and you switch to cruising pitch—and a lot better gas mileage.

But now you get something a pilot doesn't get—a new quick getaway response even without switching the pitch. A sizzling new take-off at only part throttle. A wonderfully solid new take-hold that you use in all your normal driving situations. And you get it with Dynaflo smoothness—plus another boost in gas mileage.

Why not come try it?

Why not get the feel of it by taking the wheel?

And there's no better place than right here to learn about the great new record-high horsepowers, the sweet new ride, the superb new handling, and the long list of safety features that make this, literally, the best Buick yet.

Drop in on us soon—this week would be fine—and let this sweep-styled new beauty show you what pure automobile can do.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick built today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

Pope to Bless Pair
 VATICAN CITY (AP) — Prince Rainier III of Monaco and actress Grace Kelly will come here after their wedding to receive the blessing of the Pope, an informed source said Tuesday. The couple, both Roman Catholics will have a private audience with the pontiff, the source added.

50-50 PARTNERS

Manager Stricken Kate Won't Sing

NEW YORK (UP) — Kate Smith cancelled all her public appearances today because her manager, Ted Collins, suffered a serious heart attack. She said she never will appear in public again without the man who made her "the most listened to woman in history."

The "Songbird of the South," whose husky "Hello Everybody, This Is Kate Smith," once had a radio audience estimated at 15,000,000 listeners, had planned to appear on five Ed Sullivan shows and was considering other commitments when Collins was stricken.

Collins, 57, suffered what his doctor called an "unusually severe" coronary thrombosis Jan. 14, but his illness was not disclosed until today "for business reasons." He was in an oxygen tent at doctors' hospital and was expected to be on the critical list for several more weeks.

Miss Smith, 47, daughter of a Greenville, Va., news dealer, came out of temporary retirement last year to return to television under the management of Collins, who has been her "50-50 partner" during a 25-year career that has made both of them millionaires. She sang her old familiar "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain" on three TV shows last fall and was to be on the Sullivan show Jan. 29.

Collins said recently that Miss Smith decided to sing again after she received 375,000 fan letters following a "one-shot" appearance last spring.

"I convinced Kate that she ought to do half a dozen shows a year just to prove we haven't been arrested or something," he said.

But with Collins' illness, Miss Smith announced she will give no performances until he recovers, "if it is God's will."

The Collins-Smith team was

launched in 1930, when he was a $5,000-a-year phonograph recording company manager, and she played a fat girl role in the Broadway musical, "Flying High." Collins went to the show one night after he missed his commuter train home and immediately became her manager with a 50-50 split in the gross receipts.

To this day, they never had had any written agreement.

Collins put Kate into the Palace Theatre where she set vaudeville records. He signed her up for as many as eight personal appearances in one evening to get her name and voice before the public. And then, in 1931, her spectacular vaudeville career was launched.

She gives Collins much credit for her success and has expressed her gratitude to him for taking her out of judicious fat girl parts.

"Ted kept me working hard," Miss Smith once said, "but he made me want to do everything just right and gave me the assurance I'd lost in my other work."

No Graham Crusade Planned in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Evangelist Billy Graham will not hold a crusade here in the near future, Clifford Barrows, his chief assistant, said Tuesday.

Mr. Barrows, in Vancouver for an evangelical meeting, said he did not "come here to discuss holding a crusade."

A pianist, organist and soloist accompanied him.

Rossland Ends Road, Poll Tax

ROSSLAND, B.C. (CP) — Council Monday agreed with a recommendation to discontinue the city's road and poll tax. Recommendation was made by the finance committee, which said the small amount collected made the tax merely a nuisance. In 1954 Rossland collected about $463 in poll tax and $33 in road tax.

Two FOR THE Show

By PHIL LEE

AL—Oscar Class
BB—Worthwhile
Afternoon
A—Don't Miss
B—For a Busy
C—To Put In Time

(B TO BB) "THE DEEP BLUE SEA" (Royal): Three things emerge from London Film's "The Deep Blue Sea." (1) England's Kenneth More, usually associated with comedy ("Genevieve") is capable of a rattling good performance as a dramatic actor; (2) Sparkie, once the keynote of Vivien Leigh, unforgettable heroine of "Gone With the Wind," "Waterloo Bridge" and "Streetcar Named Desire," apparently has faded; (3) Terence Rattigan, known for his brilliant "The Winslow Boy," has written a play without purpose, in short, a flop.

In the end, therefore, the blame for "The Deep Blue Sea" meandering about a purposeless void, must be laid to Rattigan's pen. For, no matter the capabilities of the cast, if the story is not there nothing is there. In brief, its apparent intent appears to prove that a married woman is courting unhappiness when she leaves her well-planned life for a new younger, more romantic lover.

WHEN THE FILM OPENS Miss Leigh has attempted to transplant her life from here to the hereafter. As an ex-doctor works furiously to make her more quick than dead the audience learns via the flashback technique that she is a clergyman's daughter and the ex-wife of an honored, knighted member of the bench (Emlyn Williams) whom she has forsaken for an ex-RAF type (More) who has forgotten her birthday. This bit of forgetfulness, it seems, was the final straw that caused her to try to end her life.

As most members of the audience will have successfully survived after having their birthdays overlooked in the rush of things (and far worse) they will have difficulty in understanding Miss Leigh's extreme perturbation. So much so, in fact, that during the rest of the play they can never whip up any real sympathy for her.

ON THE OTHER HAND one moves right along with More. You can understand him. He is the wise-cracking, amiable, forthright boy who flew the Spit and bombers for Britain, survived, but somehow lost his private battle with the postwar world. Actually he never managed to grow up. More is the best thing in the picture and the only good thing in it. But for him there would be no "BB" rating at all.

Three Plays Compete In Manitoba Festival

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Three plays are up for competition in the Manitoba regional drama festival opening here on Thursday.

It will be the first time that the regional festival has been held at the Lakehead which, for drama purposes, is included in the Manitoba region.

Pamela Stirling, English actress who is adjudicating some 56 plays in the 13 regions, will first view the Fort William Little Theatre group in "The Curious Savage," a three-act comedy by John Patrick. The production is under the direction of Arthur S. Moore.

The play concerns a Mrs. Ethel Savage, whose stepchildren are attempting to have her committed to a mental home. On arrival she is placed under the care of the doctor and nurse. She is welcomed by patients and accepts with warmth and quiet humor their philosophy and behavior.

FIRST FRENCH PLAY

Friday night the Port Arthur Community Players present "Ghosts," by Henrik Ibsen. It is directed by Peter Evdokimoff. The play concerns the evils of social prejudice and the problems created by the maladjusted in modern society.

Le Cercle Moliere of St. Boniface, Saturday, offers Moliere's comedy, "Les Fourberies de Scapin," the first French-language production to be adjudicated by Miss Stirling since she began her cross-country tour in B.C. two weeks ago.

The play, directed by Madame Pauline Boutil, revolves around the escapades of a valet, Scapin, who digs into his bag of tricks to untangle the romantic problems of his employers' sons.

Middle East Peace Plan Accepted

Canada's Maj. Burns
Plays Leading Role

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel and Egypt have accepted a three-point United Nations "peace" plan for the disputed El Aja demilitarized zone.

The UN Palestine truce supervision organization announced the agreement Tuesday after Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld conferred here and in Cairo with leaders of both sides.

Hammarskjöld said the plan was worked out after talks with the Western Bloc Three and Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, chief truce supervisor.

A few hours later, Reuters news agency reported this morning, Egyptian positions opened fire on an Israeli patrol near Zikim, in the Gaza coastal strip. The agency, quoting an Israeli spokesman, said the fire was returned, but there were no casualties.

Hammarskjöld proposed the plan originally Nov. 3 after Israeli and Egyptian forces clashed in the Negev desert area along the Israeli-Egyptian border. The fighting then was described as the most serious since the 1948 Palestine war.

Under the plan: 1. Egypt will let the truce group put demarcation lines wherever the UN men think necessary; 2. Egypt will withdraw any "minor encroachments which might still remain in the zone"; 3. Israel will remove all her military forces, obstacles and mines from the zone.

Hammarskjöld, who is making a world tour, told a press conference here Tuesday he believes a general Palestine settlement can be reached.

$100 Essay Prizes For Totem Legends

In the adjoining column and two other pages of today's issue The Times presents the actual design for the world's tallest totem pole now being carved at Thunderbird Park.

This is the design of Mungo Martin, the chief carver, and it was sketched for the Times by David Martin, his son. It tells a legend of the Kwakiutl Indians to which they belong.

Now what does this legend mean? What is the significance of the various figures? Mungo Martin will not disclose this until the totem is carved and erected.

$35 FIRST PRIZE
In the meantime Victoria school children who haven't reached their 15th birthday are invited to enter an essay contest telling what they think the legend is.

There is $100 in prize money for these essays. The first prize is $35, second $15, third $10 and there will be eight other $5 prizes. In addition each prize winner will receive an honorary share in the totem pole.

2 Million Jam Nigeria Port; Await Queen

LAGOS, Nigeria (Reuters)—Flags, banners and triumphal arches are transforming this steaming port into a carnival city keyed up for the arrival Saturday of Queen Elizabeth.

Workers are out day and night cleaning up the city and stringing colored lights, bunting and portraits of the Queen and Duke of Edinburgh. The royal party begin a three-week tour of Britain's largest colony here on Saturday morning.

Flags of all dimensions are fluttering from almost every store, apartment, ramshackle stall and house in this tropical city.

A mass movement of Nigerians into the capital has already started. Worried police officials expect more than 2,000,000 people to cram into the city, which has a normal population of less than 300,000, to welcome the Queen.

Police and administration officials expect that the Queen will receive a welcome of almost hysterical proportions, in contrast to the sullen and angry demonstrations here against the British monarchy at the time of her coronation, two and a half years ago.

Now on the eve of complete independence, Nigeria has swung to a mood of throbbing excitement at the prospect of greeting the sovereign.

SNOW ARRIVES FOR OLYMPICS

CORTINA D'AMPEZZO, Italy (AP)—A light snow began falling today on Cortina's craggy, snow-starved slopes, raising hopes for successful winter Olympic Games. The games open Thursday.

It was the first snow in 15 days. Skiers reported the slopes had little snow and were dangerously fast.

New Health Plan Due Thursday

OTTAWA (BUP)—Health Minister Paul Martin was reported today to hand today's session of the federal-provincial health insurance conference a proposal that might see Ottawa bear as high as 65 to 70 per cent of costs in the "have-not" provinces.

Informants emphasized, however, that he might not get a chance to unveil the federal proposition until Thursday.

Martin assured reporters on Tuesday that Ottawa "does have proposals that we think will bring about an agreement."

He and provincial delegates, including Ontario's treasurer, Dana Porter, and Nova Scotia Premier Henry Hicks, expected the conference to last at least until Thursday night.

Martin said after six hours' closed talks Tuesday that he had "never attended a better conference, or one where the feeling of co-operation was so high."

There was conjecture that the federal government had a number of alternative cost-sharing ideas to submit to the provinces. One report was that the Ottawa contributions would range from 49 per cent to 74 per cent.

SLIDING SCALE

The key attraction in the mooted formula—at least for the "less wealthy" provinces—would be its sliding scale of payments. For "have-nots" like the four Atlantic provinces, where per capita costs would run below the national average, Ottawa would pick up more than 50 per cent of the tab.

The wealthiest provinces, Ontario and British Columbia, would get a federal contribution of 50 per cent or less. British Columbia, as the province with the highest per capita income, probably would get 45 to 49 per cent from Ottawa under the formula, while Ontario's share would work out at 50 per cent.

Newfoundland, as the least wealthy province in terms of per capita income, might receive a federal contribution of 65 per cent to 70 per cent. Nova Scotia would get possibly as much as 65 per cent.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia has rejected a U.S. proposal to have each United Nations General Assembly plenary session opened with public prayer by a cleric. AT VANCOUVER POLICE PROBE

New Pay-Off Charges Loom

VANCOUVER (BUP)—The Tupper Royal Commission inquiry into the Vancouver police department adjourned at noon until Thursday, amid indications that the long probe will wind up then.

Sensational new evidence of alleged police payoffs is expected tomorrow.

Commission counsel J. G. A. Hutcheson told Commissioner R. H. Tupper that the RCMP was conducting a new investigation into alleged payoffs. He hoped it would be completed by Thursday and that witnesses concerned would be called then.

The commissioner said he expected to complete the public hearings tomorrow and allow counsel to make submissions on Friday. If that was too soon, he said, he could receive the submissions next Tuesday.

MUNRO AGAIN

Tabloid writer Ray Munro is expected to be cross-examined Thursday.

At today's sitting, the commission was told that it was "impossible" for a constable to have seen ex-police chief Walter Mulligan being bawled out by businessman William Couper in the office of the Quadra Social Club.

The evidence was given by Peter Turner, former manager of the Burrard Street branch of the Canadian Legion, who said he had been in Couper's office several times a week.

Turner was referring to evidence by Constable Gordon Strang, who said last week he had seen Mulligan being bawled out by Couper in the Quadra club office.

"IMPOSSIBLE"

Turner said it was "impossible" for Strang to have seen into the office from the lobby of the club. The witness drew a diagram of the club to support his contention.

Earlier, three more police officers said they had no knowledge of graft or corruption in the force.

Inspector Ben Jelley, Detective Don MacDonald and Detective Sergeant David McGregor all testified.

Jelley, described a trip he made to the Cariboo in 1954.

Claims Prowler Was Policeman

EDMONTON (CP)—Constable Gary Cleland of the city police department was remanded today until Feb. 1 on $4,000 bail after he pleaded not guilty to a charge of housebreaking.

Cleland was arrested early today by two other policemen after he had been slugged with a heavy leather belt by Richard Fisher, who said he found the officer in his home.

Road Job in North Draws Opposition Fire

Liberal and CCF members of the legislature will press for a house committee investigation of the Stewart-Cassiar Highway project in Northern British Columbia.

Spokesmen for both parties said today they are determined to "get to the bottom" of reports that all is not going well on the project, which is a mining assistance road, under the Department of Mines.

The road so far has cost about $750,000. About 48 miles have been constructed, out of a total length of about 350 miles.

Both opposition parties have discussed the issues in caucus several times since the House opened January 17.

The only outward sign of their interest came Tuesday.

admitted he had taken his wife with him but said he paid expenses of both himself and his wife.

Jelley said the trip, during which hay was bought for the police department horses and a horse was exchanged, cost the city only about $5 for meals for two constables who accompanied him. He said he saved the city $500 by buying hay at a cheaper price than could be had in Vancouver.

Detective MacDonald said alleged bootlegger Joe Celona once told him his common-law wife, Norma Moore, was a drug addict and he had spent "thousands of dollars" on her.

STEPS DOWN

H. R. MacMillan Tuesday stepped down from chairmanship of MacMillan & Bloedel, giant B.C. forest industry. He is succeeded as chairman of board by B. M. Hoffmeister. H. S. Berryman is new president. Mr. MacMillan will retain chairmanship of finance and policy committee. (See Page 27.)

WHL's Leader Orders Hockey Crackdown

(SEE SPORTS PAGES)
NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP)—Al Leader, president of the Western Hockey League, today ordered clubs and officials to crack down on "the nonsense" that already has resulted in two indefinite suspensions of players.

The latest suspension was ordered Tuesday night when Seattle's defenceman Pete Durham was benched for punching linesman Ross Valliere at Victoria.

Leader said here he would talk to New Westminster's Bobby Dawes tonight before he appears in the lineup against Seattle. Dawes suffered a slight concussion and a 24-stitch face wound in Seattle Sunday night in an ice fracas with Americans.

Lloyds' Faith In Grace Kelly Equals 100-5

LONDON (AP)—London insurance men are willing to offer 100 to 5 odds that actress Grace Kelly produces an heir or heiress to the throne of Monaco after her marriage to Prince Rainier III.

Several Monaco businessmen have approached Lloyds of London for insurance against the risk of Miss Kelly not providing such a successor.

Peter Walker, director of a Lloyds insurance company, said today he has had several inquiries for indemnity policies.

"We said we'd be happy to arrange it—provided we can have a medical report on the prince."

"And Miss Kelly, too?" he was asked.

"Well, no," Walker explained. "It's rather a ticklish business, actually. It's the male strain that counts, you know."

When several questions concerning the road were placed on the order paper by Liberal Bruce Brown, of Prince Rupert.

The road comes under the jurisdiction of Lands, Forests, and Mines Minister R. E. Sornmer.

COST-PLUS CONTRACT

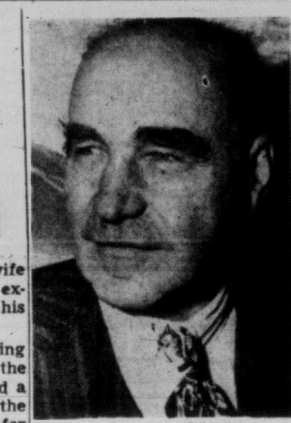

Contractor on the job in the 1954 and 1955 construction seasons was Wade and Wells Co. Ltd. formerly of Trail. The road is aimed at opening up the mineral wealth of the northern area.

It is understood the contract is on a "cost plus 10 per cent" basis for materials, and a rental basis for equipment.

Government officials said the job was started without definitive engineering, and that the project has been plagued with problems.

Several engineers have been sent to the location. Brown's questions asked for the cost of the road, and information on progress. He also asked whether tenders were called, and whether any contracts will be put up for tender in the coming season.

Brown also asked "does the department (of mines) consider construction work to date to be satisfactory?"

STEPS DOWN

H. R. MacMillan Tuesday stepped down from chairmanship of MacMillan & Bloedel, giant B.C. forest industry. He is succeeded as chairman of board by B. M. Hoffmeister. H. S. Berryman is new president. Mr. MacMillan will retain chairmanship of finance and policy committee. (See Page 27.)

House, Senate To Hear Eden Speak Feb. 6

From CP and BUP
OTTAWA—Prime Minister Eden of Britain will address a joint sitting of the Commons and Senate here Feb. 6, Prime Minister St. Laurent informed the Commons today.

Members applauded as Mr. St. Laurent made the statement in reply to a question by Opposition Leader Drew.

Sir Anthony and Britain's foreign secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, will visit Ottawa Feb. 3-4 following a visit to Washington.

Eden is on the high seas today for Washington on a mission of peace suddenly overshadowed by a mysterious Soviet note to President Eisenhower.

It seemed apparent in London that Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin timed his letter to Mr. Eisenhower to coincide with Eden's departure for the United States aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth.

Eden arrives in New York Monday and flies immediately to Washington for talks with the President and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. It was believed in London that contents of the note would be kept secret until he arrives.

The exchange followed Eisenhower's proposal for mutual aerial inspection of American and Russian military establishments. The Russians termed this plan unacceptable unless fitted into a broad disarmament program of the kind which they advocate and the United States has rejected.

Diplomats, however, did not rule out the possibility of some Soviet bid for joint action in the Middle East or a proposal for high-level talks on Far Eastern problems with Red China sitting in.

SLOW PROGRESS

Eisenhower told his press conference earlier this forenoon that any move toward a disarmament agreement with Russia now would be slow and tortuous even at the best.

Zarubin described his interview with Eisenhower as "very good."

To all questions concerning the contents of the message Zarubin held up his hand and with a smile said "no, no, no."

Princess Makes Onlookers Gasp

LONDON (AP)—A gasp went up from onlookers when Princess Margaret stepped from her car at a downtown theatre Tuesday night.

It looked very much as though the Queen's pretty young sister had come out in her stocking feet.

A second look disclosed she hadn't, quite. Her footwear consisted of a sandal sole, held on by a string of pearls.

Margaret also wore a royal blue velvet dress with ermine cape.

The show was an invitation-only preview of the American musical comedy "Plain and Fancy" which opens at the Drury Lane Theatre tonight.

Hutchison's Book Praised in Britain

LONDON (CP)—The Daily Telegraph says Bruce Hutchison's new book, "The Struggle for the Border," will enhance his prestige in England.

The paper especially mentions a "brilliant vignette" on Lord Durham and says: "The author's literary reputation stands high in Canada, where he is editor of the Victoria Daily Times. This book will increase it here."

The "brilliant vignette" tells how Lord Durham landed in Canada in May, 1838, with instructions to suppress any recurrence of the recent revolution.

Actually, Hutchison says, Durham was undertaking to save the empire and his report to the British government recommending first

Secrecy Shrouds Contents

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today received a "friendly letter" from Soviet Premier Bulganin setting forth what the White House called "certain ideas" respecting world peace.

Soviet ambassador Georgi Zarubin read Bulganin's letter in Russian to Eisenhower and to State Secretary Dulles who received him in the president's office. An interpreter translated it into English as the ambassador read.

At the end of the 15-minute conference, Zarubin left the Bulganin letter for Eisenhower's consideration and possible reply.

White House press secretary James Hagerty then told newsmen: "Intermittently since the Geneva conference the president and Premier Bulganin have been exchanging correspondence."

"CERTAIN IDEAS"

"The Soviet ambassador this morning brought in a friendly letter containing certain ideas which the premier has asked the president to study further in the interest of promoting world peace."

Hagerty said, in response to a query, he did not know whether the Bulganin letter would be made public.

Zarubin himself declined to discuss the letter.

The most commonly held theory before the delivery was that Bulganin was making a new approach on disarmament, a subject on which he and Eisenhower exchanged notes last year following the Geneva "summit" conference.

The exchange followed Eisenhower's proposal for mutual aerial inspection of American and Russian military establishments. The Russians termed this plan unacceptable unless fitted into a broad disarmament program of the kind which they advocate and the United States has rejected.

Diplomats, however, did not rule out the possibility of some Soviet bid for joint action in the Middle East or a proposal for high-level talks on Far Eastern problems with Red China sitting in.

Eisenhower told his press conference earlier this forenoon that any move toward a disarmament agreement with Russia now would be slow and tortuous even at the best.

Zarubin described his interview with Eisenhower as "very good."

To all questions concerning the contents of the message Zarubin held up his hand and with a smile said "no, no, no."

UP AND AP Dispatches

MOSCOW—Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin was absent from another important diplomatic function here Tuesday night. He made his last public appearance on Jan. 4.

Bulganin's three-week absence from public functions touched off speculation among foreign diplomats in western capitals that he may be ill. He was said to have appeared considerably tired on his return to Moscow from his tour with Khrushchev of India, Burma and Afghanistan.

Informed sources declined to say exactly what his trouble is but indications are that it might be fatigue, heart strain or jaundice.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

ETERNAL GOD, thou art the watcher of the ways of men, let Thy Divine Spirit guide and protect us this day. Help us to know Thy will for our lives and give us the strength to do it. Knowing the weakness of our hearts, we would be supported in our decisions by wisdom from on high. Encourage us in our better ambitions. Give us inner power equal to the demands upon us. Challenge us with the commanding call of human service to those in need; in Jesus' name. Amen.

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan has suggested that last October's federal-provincial tax conference be recalled.

He parried Commons questions, however, on whether he will call another meeting with provincial premiers for further discussions on the tax-sharing proposal he sent the provinces earlier this month.

Mr. St. Laurent was questioned by Hazen Argue (CCF, Assiniboia) and H. A. Bryson (CCF, Humboldt, Melfort).

Cuts in Freight

OTTAWA (CP) — The board of transport commissioners has ordered a cut in some freight rates affecting Victoria.

It made public today a judgment directing that on certain shipments the mileage between the mainland and Victoria is to be regarded as 43 miles for setting rates.

This applies on hauls between Victoria and points east of Hatzic, B.C., and Matsqui, B.C. It is applicable to "class" ceiling rates.

May Sell Star

NEW YORK (CP) — Variety, weekly publication of the entertainment world, says it is "likely" that the Toronto Star will be sold to Toronto industrialist E. P. Taylor for $23,000,000.

The story says: "Toronto Star, 90 per cent owned by a charitable foundation bearing the name of its late founder, Joseph E. Atkinson, must be sold by May 7 under a law passed by the Ontario government to prevent such bequests becoming precatory."

One of the three sales possibilities mentioned was a $23,000,000 bid from E. P. Taylor.

Commission counsel J. G. A. Hutcheson told Commissioner R. H. Tupper that the RCMP was conducting a new investigation into alleged payoffs. He hoped it would be completed by Thursday and that witnesses concerned would be called then.

The first prize is $35, second $15, third $10 and there will be eight other $5 prizes. In addition each prize winner will receive an honorary share in the totem pole.

The only clues provided are the Indian names of the 12 characters which form the totem. These, in order from the top, are as follows:

Bagunum
Uligun
Miquati
Bagunum
Tsawi
Kwagum
Kasa
Kwig
Glikan

It will be noticed that Bagunum is the chief character. He appears three times, in various poses.

MATCH THE NAMES

The suggestion is that children entering the essay contest clip out the design appearing on the three pages today, paste them together, match the figures with their names, and then seek library sources to discover who the figures are and what they mean.

The essay contest will run until the end of February. Entries should be sent to: "Totem Essays, Times Editorial Department."

School children must have a notation from their teacher, accompanying each entry. Essays should not be longer than 300 words.

Judges of the contest are: Wilson Duff, provincial anthropologist, Henry Martin and Marjorie Holmes, retired assistant provincial librarian.

Khrushchev
Thinks West
Against War

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist party secretary Nikita Khrushchev said today that he and other top Soviet leaders are "convinced" that President Eisenhower and his advisers are striving for peace.

Khrushchev said also he believes neither Prime Minister Eden nor former Premier Edgar Faure of France wants war. Faure was France's representative at the Big Four Geneva conference last year.

His statements were made in an interview with Marshall MacDuffie, a New York lawyer. He also told MacDuffie that Soviet leaders are of the opinion international tensions will be relaxed further.

MacDuffie, a former chief of the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration in the Ukraine immediately after the war, visited the Soviet Union in 1953 and 1954.

On both previous trips he had interviews with Khrushchev whom he met in Kiev when he was UNRRA chief.

Mr. Sommers claims unstated damages for a statement made by Mr. Sturdy to Chief Justice Gordon Sloan at the forest commission enquiry Dec. 16.

Counsel for Mr. Sommers earlier filed a writ seeking damages for "publication of a libel" and for alleged slander.

This followed by a few days the appearance of Sturdy before Chief Justice Sloan's commission. Sturdy asked permission of the commission to present "a certain body of evidence" he said might indicate Sommers had accepted "private consideration" in the issuing of forest management licences.

Chief Justice Sloan said the terms of his commission did not give him authority to hear allegations against a minister of the Crown.

The "Sturdy case" has been raised several times in the Legislature since it opened. Monday, Tony Gargrave, CCF MLA for Mackenzie, appealed to Mr. Sommers to drop the slander suit against the lawyer and submit "the whole business" to a royal commission investigation.

Filing of the statement of claim today, however, was taken as an indication Sommers will proceed with the libel suit.

Peace Plan Accepted

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel and Egypt have accepted a three-point United Nations peace plan for the disputed El Ajia demilitarized zone.

The UN Palestine truce supervision organization announced the agreement Tuesday after Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld conferred here and in Cairo with leaders of both sides.

Hammarskjöld said the plan was worked out after talks with the Western Big Three and Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns of Canada, chief truce supervisor.

A few hours later, Reuters news agency reported this morning Egyptian positions opened fire on an Israeli patrol near Zikim, in the Gaza coastal strip. The agency, quoting an Israeli spokesman, said the fire was returned, but there were no casualties.

Under the plan: 1. Egypt will let the truce group put demarcation lines wherever the UN men think necessary; 2. Egypt will withdraw any "minor encroachments which might still remain in the zone"; 3. Israel will remove all her military forces, obstacles and mines from the zone.

Road Job in North
Draws Opposition Fire

Liberal and CCF members of the legislature will press for a house committee investigation of the Stewart-Cassiar Highway project in Northern British Columbia.

Spokesmen for both parties said today they are determined to "get to the bottom" of reports that all is not going well on the project, which is a mining assistance road, under the Department of Mines.

The road so far has cost about $750,000. About 48 miles have been constructed, out of a total length of about 350 miles.

Both opposition parties have discussed the issues in caucus several times since the House opened January 17.

The only outward sign of their interest came Tuesday, when several questions concerning the road were placed on the order paper by Liberal Bruce Brown, of Prince Rupert.

The road comes under the jurisdiction of Lands, Forests,

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today received a "friendly letter" from Soviet Premier Bulganin setting forth what the White House called "certain ideas" respecting world peace.

Soviet ambassador Georgi Zarubin read Bulganin's letter in Russian to Eisenhower and to State Secretary Dulles who received him in the president's office. An interpreter translated it into English as the ambassador read.

At the end of the 15-minute conference, Zarubin left the Bulganin letter for Eisenhower's consideration and possible reply. White House press secretary James Hagerty then told newspaper men:

"Intermittently since the Geneva conference the president and Premier Bulganin have been exchanging correspondence."

"CERTAIN IDEAS"

"The Soviet ambassador this morning brought in a friendly letter containing certain ideas which the premier has asked the president to study further in the interest of promoting world peace."

Hagerty said, in response to a query, he did not know whether the Bulganin letter would be made public.

Zarubin himself declined to discuss the letter.

The most commonly held theory before the delivery was that Bulganin was making a new approach on disarmament, a subject on which he and Eisenhower exchanged notes last year.
